

Kidnappers release the Zevalloses

Dr. Hector Zevallos, a gynecologist and operator of the Hope Clinic for Women, Ltd., had his name razored from the outside door of Hope Clinic Friday, the day that he and his wife, the former Rosalie Jean Krekovich of Granite City, were released by their abductors at approximately 4:40 a.m. Friday, the Press-Record has learned. No reason was given for removal of his name from the clinic, but a nurse there said it was removed at the doctor's request.

The FBI stated at a press conference late Friday morning that the couple was "dropped off" near their home unharmed after slightly more than a week in captivity.

They initially made a request not to address the press or make an appearance. Neighbors have said that the Zevalloses related they were dropped off at the Edwardsville Holiday Inn about a mile from their house and walked home through a path in the woods, surprising a relative who met them at the door.

They declined to see newsmen Friday morning. "The Zevalloses are tired and worn, they need rest. They've been through a lot this last week, but appear to be in good physical condition," Joseph Ondrula, FBI special agent-in-charge of Central and Southern Illinois, said.

"What we do know, we can't discuss," Ondrula said. The FBI interviewed the couple concerning the "kidnapping" once and they have plans to conduct a more in-depth interview soon. "The Zevalloses started from the beginning of the ordeal and went to the finish, but we only touched the surface. Now we have to go back and fill in holes with a more penetrating questioning," Ondrula commented.

The Zevalloses made a brief appearance for news cameras on the front lawn of their home about 2:30 p.m. Friday and later released a written statement saying that they are "delighted to be home and safe."

FBI agents have revealed very little about the case, in fear of jeopardizing the investigation. The agents claimed not to be "stumped" in the case, but they also admit that they are not close to making any arrests, although they do have numerous leads on which to proceed.

The FBI will not comment on newspaper reports that the Zevalloses said three men entered their home Thursday night, one armed with a handgun, and that they bound, gagged and blindfolded the couple before leading them through a path in the woods to a vehicle, which drove them to a house within 100 miles of Edwardsville.

There, according to area newspaper reports, they were kept blindfolded most of the time, but were treated well.

There still are some questions remaining. The FBI said during Friday morning's press conference on the family's plight, "This is a rare occurrence, it's not your traditional type of kidnapping where the abductors make many contacts and demands for money. These abductors made only one contact and asked for no money," Agent Ondrula commented. "This kidnapping is very peculiar," he added.

The first contact with authorities after the kidnapping came when the FBI received a phone call at 3 p.m. Aug. 15 from Dr. Zevallos, saying he and his wife were being held hostage by a group called the "Army of God." Sixteen minutes later, the FBI received a call with instructions leading them to a cassette tape and an envelope taped to the inside of a chimney in a restroom in Forest Park in St. Louis.

The FBI has confirmed that the man talking on the cassette was Dr. Zevallos.

Although the FBI is not discussing suspects, they did say that based on the information gathered so far, part of the

Zevallos's statement

Following is the text of a statement released Saturday afternoon by the FBI from Dr. and Mrs. Zevallos.

"We want to take this opportunity to express our deeply-felt thanks to the press, FBI, Madison County Sheriff's Department, family, friends and neighbors, who have been so concerned about our well-being during this past week and so diligent in their efforts to help us. Needless to say, we are delighted to be home and safe."

"Upon our return home, we were overwhelmed by the outpouring of love and relief shown by so many people from our community and all over the country. Every prayer was sincerely appreciated. Every gesture of kindness made us feel better and better.

"Some day, when the events of this week are well behind us, we hope to be able to answer your questions. In the meantime, please accept our thanks for being so understanding of our situation."

Neighbors are 'glad they are home'

By MIKE MOORE of the Press-Record

"We went to the Zevallos home yesterday for just a few minutes. Dr. (Hector) Zevallos seems fine and calm. He's in real good shape, he seems to have gotten through everything OK."

Mary Ann Bright, a neighbor of the recently-released kidnappers Zevalloses, said after bringing a casserole to the doctor and his wife, "Rosalie Jean (Zevallos) is still a little bit hesitant to talk about it. I don't think she's over it all. I can imagine what she went through," Mrs. Bright added. "They played golf Sunday afternoon, that's a very good sign," she noted (the Zevalloses are avid golfers). The Brights waited until things died down in the neighborhood before visiting with the Zevalloses. "There were so many people over there after they first got back. Relatives and tons of people."

"We didn't go over there to intrude, or with intentions of sitting down and trying to find out everything we could," Mrs. Bright said.

"In fact, we just stayed maybe three minutes, just to let them know we're glad they're back safely," Mrs. Bright, who is vocal teacher at Granite City

High School South, said. Thursday night, Mrs. Bright made a cake for those in the Zevallos home who needed to eat and sent it over Friday. "I had no idea they (the Zevalloses) would be released that morning. I was just sending it over because there were so many people who needed to eat," she noted.

Mrs. Bright noted that the neighborhood has been crowded since Friday with newsmen, the FBI and the curious. "I'll be glad when things are back to normal. Today, at least, there weren't any cars parked all over the street," she noted.

STEELWORKERS' OUTLOOK on the request by Granite City Steel for "givebacks" is discussed by Buddy Davis, District 34 director, United Steelworkers of America, during a visit to the Press-Record Friday.

Defends Steelworkers' position

Buddy W. Davis, United Steelworkers District 34 director and chairman of the international union's National Steel Corp. negotiating committee, in a rebuttal to Granite City Steel President James V. Stack last week said failure of wage and benefit "giveback" negotiations last month was not due to lack of steelworker sympathy and concern for the steel industry.

Instead, Davis cited corporate actions which he said affect the industry's future and over which union employees have no control.

In a speech Aug. 10, Stack warned local community and business leaders that pay and benefit concessions are essential for steel firms to survive. Granite City Steel has been a division of National Steel since 1971.

The union leader called the steel industry's bid for about $8 billion in contract reductions unreasonable, and noted that workers were willing to have about $2 billion trimmed from previously agreed-upon contract provisions. He opposed what he described as the suggested expulsion of hundreds of satellite steel firms from coverage by the steelworkers' union.

"I know Lloyd McBride (international president) was willing to bite the bullet," Davis said. "Too many requested givebacks were the whole problem."

Adjustments in wage rates cannot be regarded as the major answer in solving the industry's economic woes, he said. "I've never heard in all my discussions with National Steel that slowing down wages would increase their capacity to use steel."

Davis also objected to what he termed Stack's "saber rattling" message Aug. 10. He said it contained a dire prediction of a long and painful dispute next year if employees fail to fall in line with management requests.

He accused steelmakers of attempting to "divide (union) leadership from the rank and file" and said the talk mentioned the possibility that individual employees would have accepted the giveback plan that the presidents of union locals rejected.

According to Davis, McBride would have had a hard time persuading members to agree to over $2 billion in wage and benefit cuts. "There was absolutely no way union members would have accepted the companies' offer," he said.

Besides National Steel, the United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO, bargain in joint talks on behalf of employees of seven other major steel

Resurface Nameoki

Work was to start today on Nameoki Road (Route 203) resurfacing, weather permitting, according to the Granite City Engineering Department. However, rain today threatens to delay start of the project.

Workers will start on the south end, at Edwardsville Road, heading northward eventually to Pontoon Road.

The Illinois Department of Transportation awarded a $227,000 contract to MacClair Asphalt Co., Fairmont City, to resurface the 2.25 miles of Route 203.

Soybean evaluation scheduled this week

Crop evaluators in four midwestern states will survey fields of corn and soybeans Aug. 25-28 and give an estimate of the size of the crops at a reporting session in Champaign, Aug. 26.

The field survey program is jointly sponsored by the Land of Lincoln Soybean Association, Illinois Corn Growers, Iowa Soybean Association, Iowa Corn Growers Association, Indiana Corn Growers Association, Indiana Soybean Growers Association and the Kentucky Soybean Association.

In 1981, these four states accounted for 43.8 percent of the 2.03 billion bushel national soybean crop and 48.7 percent of the 8.2 billion bushel corn crop.

In Illinois, the 1982 Corn-Soybean Evaluation Tour will involve 160 people in 40 survey teams. The teams will survey approximately 1,000 corn and soybean fields throughout the state.

Dennis Thompson, director of Field Services for the Land of Lincoln Soybean Association, said this year's crop evaluation tour will be more valuable to farmers because it includes a larger portion of the national crop than past surveys.

The USDA's July crop report was eliminated this year for budget reasons. This change has left farmers in the dark about the size of the crop during the summer growing season, Thompson said.

"The big grain companies have access to this information through their own evaluators. They have people in the field all season long," said Thompson. "What we're trying to do is even things up for farmers."

The first government estimate of corn and soybean production was released Aug. 11.

Thompson said past evaluation tours have provided estimates of Illinois production, which were closer to final production figures than the USDA's August crop report.

"The 1980 Corn-Soybean

Crowdad Festival attracts 100

An unusual fund raising project, a Crowdad Festival, to raise funds for the Legion of the Moose, Unit One and the Moose Lodge 272, was held at Thrasher's Auto Salvage, 2675 Highway 3, hosted by Hershel (Kingfish) Thrasher, last week.

The event attracted approximately 100 people and after the competition began, cornbread and hotbeef was served at the fest, prepared by Thrasher and John (Hambo) Young.

Dean Johnson, 2215 Missouri Ave., captured the top prize for the largest crowdad (crayfish) and the most caught. He received $15 for the two awards.

Legion of the Moose officers attending were John Bessmer, president; Richard Hasty, vice-president; John Young, secretary; Charles Hester, George Guilets, and Terry Singler, trustees.

Moose Lodge officers present were Vern Johnson, junior governor; Virgil Singler, secretary; and Hershel Thrasher, prelate.

Five GC students on Deans' List

Approximately 2,430 students were posted to the spring academic Deans' List at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

The number represents 13 percent of the undergraduate student body.

Deans' List citations go to students who, on the basis of point averages meeting high standards set by SIUC's various schools and colleges. The standards range from 3.35 to 3.75 on a scale of 4.0 (perfect). A total of 841 students on the spring list made "straight A's."

Five Granite City students on the list includes, James M. Degonia, 2229 Edison Ave., with a straight A, and Charles D. Clark, 1349 Edwardsville Road, Stephen R. Jaques, 1534 Niedringhaus Ave., and Adam Vickers, 1535 Rodge Ave.

Chromalloy details reductions to adapt to sagging economy

Chromalloy American Corporation parent company of Pre-Coat Metals in Granite City is carving out a broad restructuring of operations throughout the multi-industry company to bring costs and working capital into line with the levels of business prevailing in key markets at this time, William E. Stevens, president and chief operating officer, said today.

The company has substantially reduced payroll costs, Stevens said, through a combination of layoffs, job terminations and early retirements affecting about 2,500 employees.

Chromalloy's domestic employment has been brought down from about 17,500 at the beginning of 1982 to about 15,000 today.

"The decision to reduce employment to the extent that we have was not an easy one," Stevens said. "However, it was necessary to trim down Chromalloy's operations to the lean, efficient level required in these times when the recession has caught up with virtually every market we serve."

Chromalloy's capital expenditure plans, which originally called for the investment of about $125 million in 1982, have been cut back to about $75 million for the year, Stevens said. In addition, the company has put in place programs designed to bring inventories and receivables into better balance with the reduced volume of business in most markets.

Chromalloy's five operating companies have also instituted new, more stringent cost controls.

Stevens said, "Chromalloy's markets in metal fabrication, petroleum services and transportation have been particularly hard hit by recession. However, our companies in those markets received the lion's share of Chromalloy's heavy capital expenditures in the three years 1979 through 1981 — a total of $32.8 million. Their modern facilities and strong market positions will enable them to respond strongly to future improvement in business without requiring significant new capital expenditures."

"Our financial position also is continuing to benefit from the ongoing sale of the businesses in the group of 25 operating companies classified as discontinued last December, although they remain in operation pending disposal. Five operating companies have been sold and a letter of intent has been signed for the sale of three others."

Most of the layoffs, job terminations, and early retirements took place in Chromalloy's continuing operating companies in four industry segments. The gas turbine products and industrial products companies in the metal fabrication segment have reduced employment from about 3,600 at the beginning of 1982 to about 3,100 today. The drilling fluids and manufacturing companies in the petroleum services segment have reduced employment from about 2,100 at the beginning of 1982 to about 1,700 today.

The large line, deep sea tanker and mass transit operations in Chromalloy's transportation segment have reduced employment from about 4,100 at the beginning of 1982 to about 4,000 today, although more employees are normally required at this time than in January when cold weather cuts back some of the operations in this segment.

Burglary charge against GC man

Jerry D. Sidwell, 33, of 2248 Lee Ave., was charged with burglary in an informational document issued last week by the Madison County state's attorney's office. He also is being held for the Illinois Department of Corrections. Bond was set at $15,000.

Granite City detectives applied for the document after Sidwell was arrested while allegedly seated in a pickup truck, parked in front of the home of Jim Tadlock, 1751 Spruce St.

Police were called to that location by a neighbor of Tadlock, who reported hearing a dog bark and from a bedroom window seeing two men looking at vehicles along the street.

As officers approached the pickup truck, where two men were hiding inside, one of the men jumped from the truck and fled. Sidwell was seized behind the vehicle's steering wheel, it was alleged.

An auto belonging to Tadlock, which was parked in the driveway at the residence, also had been entered, the report said.

Anyone can make a mistake

Aw, come on fellow journalists. Give Granite City a break. Anyone can make a mistake.

Granite City's big "Okra bust," first reported in the Press-Record last week, is making the national newswires. Regionally, the Edwardsville Intelligencer Wednesday used it on the front page under the headline, "Record okra bust?" which led off with the byline, "Granite City—Oops."

"What started as an attempted crackdown on marijuana cultivating in Granite City turned into what may be the largest confiscation of okra plants recorded in Madison County."

It's not funny. The poor woman lost most of her okra crop (94 plants) because it looked so much like marijuana that police thought it was and confiscated it. The Press-Record didn't print the tongue-in-cheek jokes, although a few were passed around the office.

We didn't mention that one employee here was wearing a "legalize okra" button. Nor did we say that some people wanted to send an okra bouquet to the police department.

We didn't speculate that police from throughout the Quad-Cities might be formulating plans for a daring nighttime okra sweep of the area.

We handled it as a legitimate news item and photograph of the victim with the remaining okra. The police were, of course, embarrassed about the whole incident. They had a report of marijuana growing and, in the dark, it looked like marijuana, so they pulled up the plants.

We didn't rub their noses in it. We have too much respect for our police department and our officers to do that, but you, fellow journalists, chose to treat it as a big joke. May a hoard of locusts descend on your okra crop!

which, thus far, claims to be religiously "pro life."

If the Army of God's organization can only lead to pro-life organization, it may only tarnish the image of an otherwise respectable, nonviolent campaign. Most pro-life advocates would not resort to kidnapping or arson.

We believe that the Army of God never meant to harm the Zevalloses, and kidnapping them, although criminal, was their method of gaining publicity and, perhaps, of convincing the doctor to change his stance. Such extreme measures cannot be condoned.

Welcome home Zevalloses

In the midst of all the bad news that has battered the headlines recently, there was good news last Friday in the form of the release of Dr. and Mrs. Zevallos.

Although we do not condone the Army of God's kidnapping of the Zevalloses, we are grateful that the abductors released the Edwardsville couple unharmed.

Kidnapping is a felony and if caught, the abductors should be treated as any other felon.

Killing the Zevalloses would have accomplished nothing and would be hypocritical of an organization

FBI should tell more

The FBI continues to confuse its role with that of the CIA and the Secret Service, keeping tight-lipped about nearly everything Dr. and Mrs. Zevallos went through during their kidnapping ordeal.

Certainly, a certain amount of secrecy is needed. The FBI does not need to "tip its hand" by giving out important information on its investigation which would aid the Army of God from eluding capture.

However, it seems that the kidnappers should already know much of what the FBI refuses to discuss with the press. Obviously, the kidnappers know where they let the Zevalloses out of the car when the couple was released, but the FBI refuses to confirm the location.

Obviously, the kidnappers know how the Zevalloses were treated during their confinement, but the FBI refuses to say.

Drivers beware of students

The leaves might not yet be coming off the trees and, although the calendar still says it's August, the summer is over for Quad-City area school children. Public and parochial schools begin another academic year tomorrow for a half day.

With the opening of school, the number of children out and about the area's roadways during "rush hour" or peak driving times will dramatically increase. For most students, whether the first day of school is "old hat" or they're going for the first time, it's most frequently an exciting experience. Their minds are filled with anticipation of what this first day of school brings and not with crossing the boulevards.

It's long overdue

It's about time. Resurfacing of Namooki Road (Illinois Route 203) was to begin this morning, starting at Edwardsville Road and working north to Pontoon Road. It will take about seven weeks to complete.

No more deep potholes. No more bumpy areas along the curbs. No more obstacle courses just trying to get into the shopping centers. It is welcome news.

Traffic is going to be a mess during the repaving, but

As always, we encourage motorists to drive safely, but in the coming days, take a little extra precaution and watch for pedestrians and, in particular, young, excited school children.

We advocate leaving the house a few minutes early and driving at least five miles per hour slower than normal, at least until leaving residential and school areas. If a child is waiting for a "break" in the traffic to cross the street, stop and allow him or her to cross. Wave them across the street if all lanes are clear. More times than not, it won't make you late. But it may make you feel good.

Let's make the first day of school a memorable one for the right reasons.

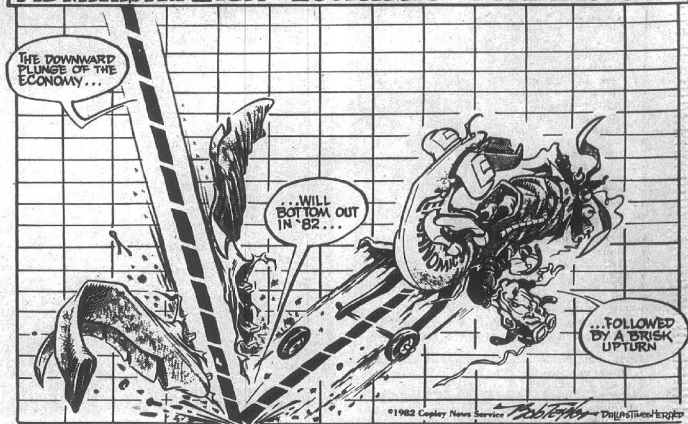

There is no easy way to avoid it. Some stores will find their main entrances blocked for a time, but the end result should be worth it. We ask motorists to be patient and careful during the work.

The only long-term sufferers from the repaving will be the auto shops which specialize in wheel alignments, shock absorbers, muffler replacement and other pothole-related repairs.

Says there are other smart four-year-olds

To the Editor:

I'm writing in response to the letter which was printed from Mike Lasiter regarding his 4-year-old daughter, Kelly, in your Aug. 19 issue. I would like to say that my daughter, too, was able to accomplish these same feats at that age and did so in her own home.

The praise she received from her loved ones was all the recognition that was of any importance to her. I, however, chose not to put it in the newspaper because I came to the realization that my child was not the only one capable of these things. In her kindergarten class, there were two more, besides her, able to read 100 books.

Not having public recognition has not discouraged her in the least. She still makes reading her life and enjoys it. My sympathy goes out to Mr. Lasiter for thinking his child is the only one that has a mind with the ability to do these things at the ripe old age of 4. Through him and his letter, Kelly received the recognition he felt she deserved, but to compare this to any other article in the paper was a bit immature. My only hope is that Mr. Lasiter will be able to grow up to be as wise as his 4-year-old, Kelly, evidently is.

Mother seeks justice in death of her son

To the Editor:

No one would ever know the real pain of losing a child, but a mother.

On Jan. 18, 1982, Franklin "Peaches" Wooten's life stopped. "Peaches," as his friends called him, was shot while attempting to leave a parked auto.

Shot in the back of the neck, the bullet lodged in the mid-brain of Franklin's head. Franklin ended up in a snow-covered field near 909 Franklin St. in Madison.

"I, Mrs. Charlene Nelson Wooten, was never informed of any portion of what transpired that cold winter night, in January. Being crippled and barely able to move my extremities, I struggled in the ice and snow to locate the hospital, where my son lay dying.

I ran into someone who informed me to go to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where I found he was transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, where he died, Jan. 20 at 9:25 a.m.

Now being his mother, I never received a call from any of the departments handling this case or the hospitals that treated and transferred him.

Yet, to my knowledge, the culprit was never even arrested.

All I know is I had to bury my son and it seems, because he's black, there won't be any justice taken.

I guess I wouldn't feel so bad if I could explain to his children what happen.

I have been given the run around so many times until I don't know what to believe, where can I go for justice?

I know God will work it out, but until then, I wonder, why?

Justice will not prevail in this matter.

Publicity helped

Shrine parade and circus

To the Editor:

The circus is over, the committees have been thanked, and we of Ainsel Temple want to also thank those that helped in any way to continue our annual event and make it stronger.

Your newspaper was one of those and your attention to our fund raiser each year has been most helpful, both to us, and letting the public know about the circus, and where they would be for their viewing.

Our parades also means much work, but with your help, we had a super turnout of people to say "Hi" and the nobles and other groups in the parade were quite pleased.

Our efforts, along with yours, tells more people each year of the reason for the Shrine, and our hospitals continue to gain more new children because of our working together. Right now, we have more than 10,000 children, and our active patient rolls in St. Louis, so you can see what the hospitals are doing overall.

Australia was unforgettable experience

To the Editor:

First of all, I'd like to tell you how much I appreciated the long article in the Monday, Aug. 9, paper regarding my year as a Rotary exchange student to Australia. I feel, though, that I'd like to add to what was written.

I spent my year in Sidney, Australia, the largest and loveliest city in that country. I feel that the reason I was never heart sick overseas is because I had four very special families to live with. I was fortunate enough to have seen a large part of the east coast. The scenery was unforgettable. It was interesting and educational to see the ocean, tropical rainforests, and the famous "Aussie Outback."

Through my contact with other exchange students from Europe, North and South America, Asia, and Australia, my horizons have been greatly expanded. I learned that people are only people; their ignorance of each other is what leads to world conflict. One can be a patriot without being a bigot.

Lastly, I'd like to commend the Granite City Rotary Club for being such a valuable asset to our community. Their ideal of service goes largely unrecognized by a vast majority of people.

The Rotary exchange program does more to foster international goodwill than any government program. I only hope more people will take advantage of this opportunity, not only for travel, but for a valuable growing experience.

ZEVALLOS'S SAFE RETURN is celebrated by Laura Moody, left, Hope clinic director, and the Zevallos's children Liso, 21, and kidnapping was linked with abortion. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch quotes unnamed sources as saying that the FBI has identified the Zevallos's abductors and has had at least one of them under surveillance. It says the men are believed to be white and in their 40s and 50s.

The Post-Dispatch also says that the FBI is concentrating its investigation in St. Clair County, specifically the Collinsville, Fairview Heights and Belleville areas.

The same day of the Zevallos's arrival home, the doctor's name was removed from the door at his office adjoining Hope Clinic. According to a nurse, Dr. Zevallos requested to have his name taken off of the door. No reason was given for that request and clinic employees declined to comment further.

The FBI notes that there is a sufficient number of agents at the Zevallos home around the clock.

alarm and burglar alarm at the clinic sounded seconds after the fire was already spotted by the security guard. Apparently, the fire's heat broke alarm connections, Nonn said.

Both doors to the clinic were locked the night of the fire, and two keys are needed to open the doors, according to Nonn. The building has no opening windows.

The detective can not understand how a fire-bombing could have set off the blaze here, when no ready external point of entry could be found at the time of the fire.

"It was the type of fire I've never seen before in my four years of arson investigation," Nonn said. "In my opinion, I don't feel it was an accident."

Another interesting twist to the fire — pointing to a professional arsonist's involvement in the fire — is the absence of an evidence indicating what sort of fuel fed the "very hot, quick-moving fire."

Generally, an accelerant, causing a rapid fire, can be found. Some chemicals are available which burn completely and leave no traces, but these are not available to the average person, it was noted.

The case has never been closed, but all leads, so far, have been exhausted, Nonn said.

union representatives, the union suggested that any savings resulting from the concessions be invested in the steel industry, he noted.

From the start of the union leaders' own discussions among themselves during July, they realized they had to do something in view of the general economy, labor costs and the "company's own mistakes," Davis said.

He said the union's $2 billion cost reduction offer was rejected, and the company's $8 billion reduction proposal was presented on a final, "take it or leave it" basis.

As a result, on Aug. 1, instead of foregoing scheduled raises in the third year of a 1980-83 pact, workers received substantial pay and benefit increases. A new agreement will be drawn up for the period starting Aug. 1, 1983.

"The steel industry has refused to take the help that was offered to them," Davis said. "Why industry chose to take the hardcore path, I don't know."

The negotiating chairman said the $8 billion plan would have reduced starting employees' wages and cut vacation benefits, cost-of-living provisions and other employee compensations.

He said a $22.59 average hourly wage quoted by Stack could be misleading, since it includes incentive pay, overtime premiums, insurance premiums,

Social Security, all fringe benefits and unemployment compensation.

Davis also said possibly misleading was a comment that financial data mentioned in the Aug. 10 talk had not been challenged by labor.

According to Davis, labor has never had the opportunity to look over the company's records to be able to reach any kind of opinion on the validity of the figures. He said he has attempted several times without success to check figures to see how they apply to operations at Granite City Steel. Objecting to comments that the union is laying the groundwork for a possible steel strike, Davis said such statements contribute to poor employee-plant relations.

Granite City Steel already has an awkward employer-employee relationship, with about 700 grievances filed at the local plant annually, Davis asserted, adding:

"If we met every day for the rest of the year, we wouldn't have all the grievances cleared up."

"That's a terrible kind of grievance record."

The union official said the sheer number indicates to him that some sort of problem exists at the plant. In his opinion, discipline procedures need to be revised.

Harris School property damaged; driver charged

Michael Bridges, 18, of 2014 Edwardsville Road, was charged with criminal damage to property, careless driving, resisting arrest and failure to give information at the scene of an accident after his auto allegedly went into the yard at Harris School, damaging two bushes and a fence, at 4:30 a.m. Thursday.

Madison police said they found the auto with a flat tire in an alley near the school a short time after the accident and questioned Bridges and two passengers in the car. Bridges was taken to the Madison Police Department where he allegedly said he would not go to the jail cells and became violent, pushing Patrolman Frank Baczewski against a wall, according to officials. Force was used to restrain him and he was jailed, officers noted. Bridges' auto was towed to a police holding area.

THEFT FROM AUTO

A black man wearing blue jeans and a blue jean jacket was seen getting into a car in the 1500 block of Second Street last week in the early morning hours and when a neighbor yelled at the man, he put something from the car under his jacket and ran west toward State Street. A hump-mounted CB radio and tape player were subsequently discovered missing from the auto. A coat hanger was used to unlock the door, police said.

Legislation to aid in-home nursing care

Governor James R. Thompson has acted on legislation that will broaden the program to determine whether a nursing home applicant can use in-home and community-based services, rather than receive nursing home care.

"In-home care for senior citizens in Illinois is significantly improved under the Thompson Administration and this is another step in giving the elderly the choice of staying in their homes and remaining independent or receiving the care they may need directly from nursing homes," the governor said.

"What this legislation does is further involve state government in providing our senior citizens with the opportunity to make that decision for themselves," he said, "and gives them the options they need to make a choice that will assure them of the comfort and care they require in the future," he said.

Thompson signed House Bill 2147, which requires the Department of Public Aid to establish a nursing home pre-screening program in conjunction with other state agencies, particularly the Departments on Aging and Rehabilitation Services.

According to the legislation, priority for services will be given to seniors who are at their imminent risk of institutionalization.

In addition, the measure will allow eligibility standards and fees for in-home care to be based on a recipient's ability to pay for services. It also requires Public Aid to apply for a waiver from the federal Health and Human Services Department for permission to pay for home and community-based services from Medicaid funds.

The Omnibus Reconciliation Act, approved by Congress in 1981, allows states to apply for federal waivers to use Title XIX Medicaid funds for home care services as a low-cost alternative to placing the elderly in nursing homes.

Thompson, in approving H.B. 2147, vetoed House Bill

1120, which would have established a demonstration screening project for in-home care and created a sliding fee scale of no more than $100 for home care services.

"House Bill 1120 does not provide for fee schedules that are compatible with federal and state programs and is in conflict with the f.e.s. established in a recent court case."

"The serious nature of planning for a nursing home diversion program will not go unaddressed," he said. "Emphasis is being placed on targeting services to those in greatest need, in developing mechanisms for nursing home diversion and establishing day care services."

Judge Edward C. Ferguson of Highland, has been appointed by the Illinois Supreme Court to serve on the coordinating committee for the 1983 Associate Judge Seminar. Judge Joseph J. Barr, chief judge of the Third Judicial Circuit has learned.

Judge Ferguson will be a

Judge Ferguson to serve on committee member of the committee consisting of twelve associate judges from throughout the state who will be responsible for selecting the topics and the faculties for the educational part of the program. The committee will also be responsible for the general planning of the seminar working in conjunction with the administrative office of the Illinois Courts.

For the last one and one-half years, Ferguson has been serving in the capacity as Chief associate judge and has been in charge of the administration of a large segment of judicial business of the courts.

The annual associate judge seminar takes place in late March in Chicago as part of the Illinois Judicial Conference. The Judicial Conference, as established by the Constitution of Illinois, considers the work of the courts and suggests improvements in the administration.

Accreditation for 3 prisons

Department of Corrections Director Michael P. Lane has announced that four DOC facilities have been accredited by the Commission on Accreditation for Corrections, a group of corrections professionals who audit correctional facilities to ensure that they meet standards set by the American Correctional Association.

Those DOC institutions attaining three-year accreditation status include the Joliet Correctional Center, the Illinois Youth Center at DuPage and the Fox Valley (Aurora) and Peoria Community Correctional Centers.

With accreditation for the four facilities, 60 percent of all DOC institutions housing incarcerated adults and juveniles have been cited for meeting the stringent ACA standards.

"Accreditation proves that the department is operating safe and secure facilities while providing humane living conditions and programs which meet the basic needs of incarcerated individuals," Lane said.

"The process enables DOC facilities to set specific goals for becoming accredited," he added. "But attaining accreditation is not just an end in itself. Accreditation requires institutional staff to establish sound management practices that benefit the department and the state in the long run."

"We are proud that these four facilities have become accredited and we reaffirm our pledge to continue efforts to have all DOC institutions and programs meet the tough standards established by the ACA," Lane said.

The Joliet Correctional Center, a maximum security prison, is the oldest facility in the state. It was built between 1858 and 1869 with the first prisoners arriving on May 22, 1868. The prison has a rated capacity of 1,250, although fewer inmates are currently housed there due to a $5.6 million remodeling project at one of the cell houses.

In addition, the institutional hospital was completely remodeled and reopened last fall at a cost of more than $2.5 million. Joliet also serves the reception and classification center for Northern Illinois.

JVC-DuPage, located near Naperville, is the only educational facility operated by DOC. It has a capacity of 53 girls and 20 boys. The youth center was originally constructed in 1964. However, a new facility was built at the present location in 1973 under a unique arrangement between the state and Standard Oil of Indiana, which purchased the land and constructed the buildings according to DOC specifications. New residential and vocational education buildings costing $1.4 million were constructed during the last year.

The Fox Valley and Peoria Community Correctional Centers are two of the older pre-release programs operated by DOC, having been established in the early 1970's. Fox Valley CCC has a capacity of 50 residents while the Peoria CCC houses 29.

DOC pre-release programs provide a residential setting from which select offenders can be gradually reintegrated into the community through area employment and family contact.

The Peoria CCC accomplished total compliance with all applicable ACA standards. This distinction places the Peoria CCC in the top one percent of all correctional facilities in the nation.

HIGH SPEED CHASE

A high speed chase involving a motorcycle rider and a police car in the downtown Granite City area ended at West 25th Street and Bryan Avenue, with the motorcycle rider receiving 10 traffic violations early Friday morning.

Ricky Evans, 18, of Parma, Mo., allegedly was riding a motorcycle at a fast rate of speed eastbound on Niedringhaus Avenue at State Street when first seen by the police, at 3:15 a.m. Friday. He proceeded south on Grand Avenue at Niedringhaus then to 19th Street where he continued west to State Street then south on State Street turning east through a parking lot at 1830 State St. into an alley and exiting westbound through another parking lot on Niedringhaus. The chase continued west on Niedringhaus to 20th Street then to Missouri Avenue and north to West 25th Street where the motorcyclist allegedly turned west and was stopped at Bryan Avenue.

According to police reports, an officer had the squad car siren going during the pursuit and a light flashing. Evans was arrested and charged with fleeing and attempting to elude police, disobeying a stop sign, failure to stop at sidewalk emerging from alley, reckless driving, no lights when required, riding a motorcycle without glasses, driving the wrong way on a one-way street, disobeying a traffic control device, no valid registration and going 60 miles an hour in a 30 mph zone.

Man charged with burglary

Danny Ray Selph, 23, of 2061 Rhodes St., was charged with burglary in information documents issued by the Madison County State's Attorney's office late last week in connection with a Madison burglary last Wednesday.

Ted Reed, 2020 Edwardsville Road, returned home to find the front door window broken and the door forced open. There also was a cut in the screen to a back window.

Drawers were opened and dumped on the floor and numerous items were missing, including three shotguns, a rifle, a typewriter, a television set, a movie camera and projector, two cameras, a pocket calculator, an alarm clock, CB radios, a transistor radio, a drill, a scanner, a telephone answering machine, a small coin collection and a tape recorder.

Madison police questioned several neighbors and showed them photos of several youths. Based upon information gained, officers went to a mobile home in Caseyville and alleged finding many of the items wrapped in a bedspread and pillow cases in a wooded area near the mobile home.

Still missing are two shotguns, a rifle and a typewriter, officers said.

Subsequent investigation led to the arrest of Selph, who allegedly had several coats from the coin collection in his possession when he was booked.

He was taken to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville at 12:55 p.m. Friday in lieu of bond.

Corral, Evilville split; showdown slated for Sunday

By ROGER KRAMER

EDWARDSVILLE — Doug Rains, a pitcher for the Corral Liquors baseball team, was a busy man Sunday against the Edwardsville Nationals. In fact, he was probably too busy for his own good.

Rains pitched the first game of the Inter-City League championship series and won it 7-4. However, it took him and his teammates nine innings to win the game.

Seven innings is a regulation game in innings and gave up a run in each of his full innings of work.

"I told Ken that I would do it if I would have to, and that I was ready to pitch. I really didn't have a choice whether I would pitch or not."

The most costly run he gave up came in the seventh inning. Bruce Pfeiffer and Rusty Brown both opened the inning with singles, and Rains intentionally walked Phil Conreux to load the bases. Dave Krause then hit a sacrifice fly to right field to score the the Inter-City League when a double-header is played.

In the second game on Sunday's championship double header, pitchers Ken Crawford and Mike Robertson couldn't stop Edwardsville over three and two-thirds innings, and Rains had to pitch again. He completed the game for Corral but took a 13-12 loss.

Because of the double header split Sunday, the two teams will play a single nine-inning game at 1 p.m. Sunday at Wilson Park to decide the league championship.

Rains pitched well in the first game as he gave up only six hits over nine innings.

"I started off bad the first game, but I got in the groove later in the game. I was putting the ball where I wanted it," Rains said.

Crawford, who pitched a no-hitter last week against McDonald's, struggled through the first three innings of the second game but had an lead. However, Crawford's shoulder became sore and he left the game.

Robertson had little pitching experience during the season, but Edwardsville got six runs before Rains came in to get the final out. Rains gave up seven hits in his three and a third winning run.

"They hit the ball where they (our fielders) ain't," Rains said. "That's the name of the game."

It is possible that Rains will get the decision in all three championship games. Rains is scheduled to start the game next Sunday.

"My arm is fine right now. I'll know how sore it is Monday. I know that I'll be ready to pitch next week."

In the first inning of the first game, Robertson singled and scored on a grounder to Dave Hogenbrock, but Edwardsville took the lead when Greg Steiner singled and Dan Allaria hit a home run over the left field fence.

Corral took the lead in the second. Warren Buster hit a double, and Jeff Stamper hit a single to put runners on at first and third. But scored on a grounder to third. Stamper stole third and scored on an error by the catcher.

Edwardsville scored single runs in the fourth and fifth innings to take the lead again, but in the sixth, Larry Burns walked and scored on Robertson's ground rule double.

Corral played lost in the ninth inning. Hogenbrock singled, and Jeff Tretter hit a home run into right-centerfield. Buster followed with

OUT AT HOME. Corral Liquor's Tom Greco is tagged out by Edwardsville catcher Phil Conreux when Greco tried to score on Dave Hogenbrock's single in the seventh inning of Sunday's second another home run to insure the win.

Buster also made the key defensive play of the game. Edwardsville had the bases loaded in the eighth inning with no one out. After Mark Clark threw a runner out at home on a grounder, Pfeiffer flew to Buster at center field. Steiner tried to score on the play, but Buster threw him out at home.

Corral made winning the first game harder than it should have been. Despite earning 14 hits, the Cowboys left 10 runners on base.

On the other hand, Corral only made one error in the first game. "It was a team effort," Rains said. "No individual can take the credit for a victory, everyone did a good job."

The second game was a hitter's delight. Corral had 15 hits in the game, and four of those were home runs.

Edwardsville had 17 hits in the game. Robertson opened the game with a home run for Corral and hit a two-run home run in the fifth inning. Tom Greco and Tretter both had two-run home runs in the fourth inning to give Corral the seemingly safe 8-4 lead.

Corral blew several chances to win the second game as they again left runners on base; seven. The Cowboys had a perfect opportunity to take the lead in the seventh, but they failed to do so.

Rains and Greco both walked, and both advanced to second and third on a wild pitch. Hogenbrock singled to center field. Rains scored, but Edwardsville center fielder Jamie Semisen easily threw Greco out at the plate. With two out, Tretter walked, but Buster filed to center to end the inning.

The game was tied 12-12.

Edwardsville picked up the winning run at their last at bat to win 13-12.

In the double-header, Robertson was 7-of-8, Greco was 6-of-9, and Tretter was 5-of-9.

"Our team likes to hit the ball, and we have good hitters up and down the line up," Rains said. "A couple of our better hitters weren't here, but they should be back next week, and they'll help us out."

(First game)
Corral 120 001 003-9 15 1
Edwardsville 200 110 000-4 8 2
Rains and Hogenbrock; Semisen, Stoltz (8) and Conreux; HR: Allaria (E) first, one on; Tretter (C) ninth, one on; Buster (C) ninth, solo.

(Second game)
Corral 112 421 1-12 15 1
Edwardsville 103 611 1-13 17 1
Crawford, Robertson (4); Rains (4) and Hogenbrock; Hellman, Stoltz (6) and Conreux; HR: Robertson (C) first, solo; Steiner (E) first, solo; Greco (C) fourth, one on; Tretter (C) fourth, one on; Robertson (C) fifth, one on.

Championship Sunday

GRANITE CITY — The Corral Liquor Cowboys will host the Edwardsville Nationals in the third game of the Quad-City League championship series at 1 p.m. next Sunday at Wilson Park.

The nine-inning game will decide the league championship. The two teams split a double-header Sunday, forcing the third game to be played.

Corral won Sunday's first game 7-4 in extra innings and lost the second game 13-12 in the regulation seven innings.

Corral is the defending champion and is 13-11 overall this season.

Baseball championship called 'most scintillating'

By AL BARNES

for the Press-Record

This area of the state of Illinois has produced more than its share of state championship teams: Granite City once in basketball, five times soccer champions and once in baseball. Venice and Madison have contributed titles in basketball to raise the area's total in prep crowns.

In addition, the area's wrestling efforts have been little less than brilliant, and its tennis players have consistently been outstanding.

Probably the most outstanding and scintillating was the 1948 Illinois State High School baseball championship won by Coach Lawrence McCauley and his Granite City (South) aggregation up at Peoria.

The Warriors baseballers that year had gotten off to a dismal start by losing their first three games. Then they turned everything around and won all the rest including eight straight victories.

Now, quoting from my own story written for the St. Louis Star-Times: "In two state meet itself, the Happy Warriors were darkhorses with the least impressive record in the eight-team tournament of teams from all sections of the state. Their first victim was the high school and one of two favorites, Peoria Manual. They won this one 2-1. Next they wallowed the Chicago entry — Niles by 7-2 score and finished the sweep by defeating their neighbors, New Athens, 4-1, in the title game.

In researching for this feature story, I talked to as many players of the championship team that I could locate: Rudy Diak, ace of the staff, pitched two of the games and fanned 10 in his first effort, and came back and wiffed 11 in the championship contest against New Athens. He is now, 34 years later, nearing retirement as a member of the Illinois Highway State Police.

Art Borchers, sure-fielding second sacker for the champs and now an engineer at McDonnell-Douglas, pitched the two-run bagger which won the opening game at Peoria for the Warriors. After service in the Navy, Borchers came back and played two years of basketball for Blair Gullion at St. Louis' Washington U.

Conrad (Babe) Champion, who went on to coach baseball at his old school until he gave it up just two years back, was a starter in the outfield and probably the youngest player on the squad.

In the title game, says Champion: "We dropped behind by one run in the second inning, but came back to tie it up and move ahead to stay in the bottom half of the frame on a miscue by a player most of you will not be very trouble-placing. Rely (Whitely) Herzog, now manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, but then in center field for New Athens. Here's how it happened: Potay Portell singled to center, Cookie (now deceased) Jones walked and after Tid filed out, Carl Linhart tripled to center on a wind-blown fly which Whitely either misjudged, or beat in his eagerness to drive in the tying run and what proved to be the winning tally. In fairness to Herzog, the lights there in Peoria gave all of us troubles during the tournament."

Linhart, now a brick mason at Granite City Steel, made it to the major leagues as a member of the Detroit Tigers for, as he says: "Brief stays."

Linhart was chosen as the tournament's Most Valuable Player and was, along with Borchers, Diak and Champion, picked on the All-Star team.

Those I talked with have retained vivid memories of their old teammates even though most had trouble definitely placing what those players are doing now.

The best I could do on Bob Revak, the third hurler on the staff, was that he taught math at the University of Illinois. Dick Kostoff, a back-up infielder, ended up as an insurance man. While not in the team photo, an important cog on the team was its bookkeeper, Paul Schuler, now mayor of Granite City.

Walter Wilson, who sold meat for the Hunter Packing Company, is now retired and living in California. Cliff Hoebecke, an ace hurler who posted a 6-3 record in '48, is an insurance man. Krause is assistant superintendent of schools here in Granite City. Tadich is a "wheel" in the United States space program and lives in Florida. Bud Warfield, an outfielder, is supposed to be living now in Collinsville. Portell was almost as proud of his wrestling talent as that in baseball. He's now retired from the Granite City fire department.

Cookie Jones, like many members of the title baseball team, was also a standout on the football team. He was reputed to be "the best T" quarterback in the Southwestern Illinois Conference."

Hoebecke won two letters in football. Linhart also won two letters on the gridiron. Wilson was a three letter winner in football. Krause won three grid monograms. Borchers won a pair of letters in baseball, football and basketball. He played on the Washington U.

football team.

Mike Barnes defends his tennis championship

Mike Barnes of Granite City successfully defended his championship crown in the 22nd annual Granite City Park District Invitational Tennis Tournament this past weekend. The match had been postponed due to weather.

He defeated Dr. Ed Doisy, 0-6, 6-4, 6-2, Monday afternoon at Wilson Park in the final of the 22 and over men's singles match. It was the second straight year in which Barnes lost his first set and then recovered to win the crown in his division.

Three other matches in the rain-delayed tournament were completed early this week: Monday morning, Granite City's Robbie Lombardi lost a heart-breaker to Highland's Marcelo Pissibono, 6-4, 6-4. And, that same day, the 18-and-under boys doubles team of Ken Shaw and John Quarengi defeated Mark Davis and John Areogood, in straight sets, 6-0, 6-4. Shaw was the tourney's sole double winner having also captured the 18-and-under boys singles title. Shaw is from Edwardsville and his partner from Collinsville. In the "Battle of Belleville," Shirley Piquard defeated her cross-town buddy, Meredith Heinenman, in a hard-fought three-setter, 5-6, 6-2 and 6-4. Finally, in the girls' 14 and under event, the team of Julie Heiligenstein and Tiffy Rickett defeated Christie Heiligenstein and Amy Johnson, 6-4, 6-7 (tie breaker was 7-5) and 6-2.

WED., JUNE 2, 1948.
Baseball. Peoria, Ill., June 2.—The Peoria Cubs defeated the Chicago Cubs, 4-3, in a game that was a pitchers' duel. The Cubs' ace pitcher, Noodles Hahn, pitched a complete game, allowing only three runs on five hits and one walk. The Cubs' offense was stifled by Hahn's pitching, and they were unable to score until the bottom of the seventh inning. The Cubs' victory was their first since June 1, when they lost to the Chicago Cubs, 3-2.

'The Other Place' finishes first in 3A

One reason the Other Place finished first this year, according to coach Don Brown, is because members of the team get along better than most.

"I think one reason we won so many games is that all of the girls on my team like one another. They enjoy the practices just as much as the games," Brown said. His team finished first in the women's 3A division.

The Other Place finished their season with an 11-2 record, putting them in first and Smokey Joes II in second with a 10-3 record. The Other Place and Smokey Joes II were tied for first until Monday night when the two were paired up to determine the first place team.

"We have beat them before and they have beat us before. Everybody was very nervous about the game. We were determined to win and we did, 11-1," Brown said. The game ended in the sixth inning due to the ten run rule.

The Other Place defeated Rapid Heating, 11-6, immediately before playing Smokey Joes. The Other Place kept a lead on Rapid Heating throughout the game.

A member of 'The Other Place' taking a cut.

Brown's team scored four runs in the first inning to gain a substantial lead. Rapid Heating started the game with nine players instead of 10.

"Our team definitely is strong in the defense department. We turned over at least five double plays during the season. Our hitting is good, also," Brown said. Throughout the season, third baseman Debbie Reeves had three home runs, left center fielder Denise Goode also had three home runs and shortstop Denise Bryant had two.

"I couldn't single out one player and say that she is the backbone of the team, they're all good at one point or another. They work as a team and they communicate on the field," Brown said.

At the start of the season The Other Place had its problems. Many girls were playing positions that were not familiar to them. That could have contributed to their two losses.

In the playoffs Monday night The Other Place will play the fourth place team in the women's 3A division at 7 p.m. Smokey Joes II will play the third place team.

Sports of all Sorts

Stiffer, more complete exams a must

By AL BARNES

For the Press-Record
The sad news last week in St. Louis of the death of a 15-year-old football player stricken and then dying following a high school pre-season practice session makes me, again, strongly urge that our society face up to its obligations in this area of our life: much stiffer physical exams before a young man, or woman, is permitted to "go out for the school team."

Whether true or not ... and I'm sure that in most cases, it isn't true ... I've always felt that the "physicals" given to athletes are much too casual and not nearly as exhaustive as they should be ... to detect any possible danger to a young man or woman who wishes to play the sport being considered.

And, in this same ballpark, or area, I feel very strongly that our society must do more to protect the athletes at the junior and senior high school levels with the presence of an athletic trainer at all games. And, for that matter, a qualified doctor on the sidelines at those same contests.

Funny thing, in talking this problem over with many athletes, I have had not too much support from the older players ... 16 and older ... who take the position, generally, that "we didn't have them, so why should we waste it on the young ones."

Of course, the deaths are the most dramatic cases, but I maintain that there would be less men walking around now in their 50s with gimpy knees and aching livers, et al. if there had been just rudimentary help on the sidelines in years past.

In fact, it has been only recently that our universities and colleges have offered and given degrees in the area of physical therapy.

Most colleges do, now, have what the Public calls "Team Trainers" with most of their teams. The pro teams, football, basketball, baseball, etc., led in the appointment of such important personnel. But, only in recent years.

It's in the same category, I suspect, as our outlook on problems of obtaining expert officiating in all areas of sports. We don't mind paying large sums of money to view a football game, for example, but at the same time we don't insist that the owners furnish expert umpires and referees to "work" those games.

The advent of the "instant replay" has a very dramatic illustration of the need for better officials.

Again, I feel that there is a place in our scene of things for schooling ... on the college level ... for courses aimed at producing well schooled and trained officials. I think that our society, which is highly sports minded, should face up to its obligation of seeing to it that our sons and daughters be provided with officials who, first, know rules of the sports they call; and secondly, that their eyesight is good enough to see ... correctly ... what went on on the playing field. And, lastly, that these same officials shouldn't be ashamed to utilize that same "instant replay" capability to backstop their decisions when a game's outcome depends on the right "call" being made. The technology is there right now; all we have to do is make the decision to use it.

And, in conclusion: my biggest "beef" through the years has been in the field of "calling balls and strikes." The electronic tools for the calling of balls and strikes are in being. And, I'm not suggesting that the umpire behind the plate be eliminated, no, not at all. He should be there to control the game ... to call interference, foul balls, etc. ... but let the unerring electronic eye say home or not the pitch "got the corner."

GC men capture Tae Kwon Do titles

Two Granite City men fared well in professional Tae Kwon Do competition at St. Augustine's Restaurant in Belleville last month.

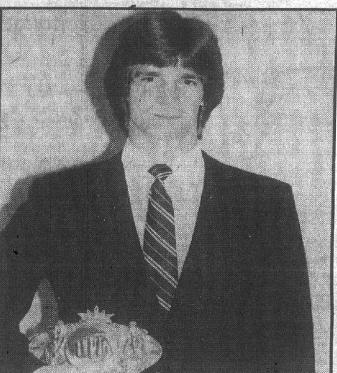

Robert Matthews defeated Roy Stuble of Hamilton, Ohio, for the light-middle weight championship belt, while Ed Mitchell took the middle weight title from Steve Imman of Chicago.

Both fights went the distance of eight rounds and both were unanimous decisions.

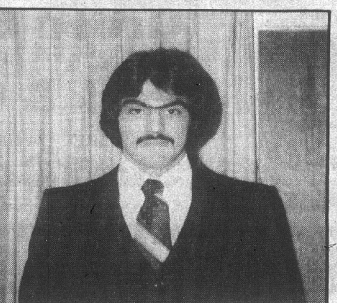

In two other fights, Clifton Clark, American Feather Weight Champion, knocked out his opponent in the third round and Korean San Hoo of Korea kayoed his opponent in the first round.

Tae Kwon Do is similar to professional karate except that in TKD three kicks must be thrown for every three punches—a mix, of sorts, of boxing and karate.

Matthews is an employee at First Granite City National Bank.

Tarkio is located in the northwest corner of Missouri near Kansas City and St. Joseph. The school has an enrollment of approximately 500.

Lord Nelson's finishes first

Lord Nelson's 12-year-old Midget I baseball team of the Granite City Park League won the playoff championship Friday, Aug. 6, by defeating the Mets 9-3.

Although the team has finished either first in league play or the playoffs four of the last five years, this is the first year they have managed to capture both titles. Lord Nelson's finishes the year with a 14-4 record.

Mike Edwards and Ed Bodham coach the team.

SIUE kickers eye yet another championship

EDWARDSVILLE — It doesn't take a mathematician to add up all the elements of the 1982 soccer Cougars of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and come up with an answer that looks like 1982 may join the long list of outstanding seasons for SIUE.

Simple addition indicates that having eight of your top nine scorers joining first team All-American defender Tom Groark, plus All-American candidate Ed Gettemeier in the goal cages, all returning from last year's 13-1 team, coupled with the addition of three highly-touted newcomers, adds up to what promises to be one of the most exciting seasons since the Cougars' 1979 national championship.

Indeed, SIUE will make its 1982 debut Sept. 1 at Cougar Field against Avila College with such outstanding returning letterman forwards Dan Malloy, Bill Stallings, Dan O'Keefe and Sean Mulqueeny, while an experienced corps of mid-fielders includes Steve Gauvain, Leo Bourneuf, Tim Loughman, Craig Guempel and Mike Gauvain.

The defense, headed by All-American Tom Groark, also includes letterman Mike Twelman, Greg Fleher, Guempel and the return to SIUE of National Youth Team player Chris Hundelt. Ed Gettemeier, who allowed just 1.22 goals per game last year, heads the list of goalkeepers, while sophomore Dave Cappetta will provide depth and backup support.

Newcomers Chris Hundelt, who delayed his collegiate debut last year to compete with the United States National Team, Matt Tracy, a junior college All-American defender last year while leading Florissant Valley Community College to the national championship as an assistant coach last year.

to the national championship, and Tom Blake, a midfielder-forward on the 1981 Busch Senior National Amateur Cup Championship team, will also play key roles in the Cougars' drive toward their 14th consecutive NCAA post-season tournament appearance.

The 1982 edition of the Cougars will also feature a newcomer to the SIUE coaching ranks. Joining Bob Guelker on the sidelines this season will be former Cougar standout Tom Howe. A 1971 graduate of SIUE, Howe joins the Cougars after helping Florissant Valley Community College to the national championship as an assistant coach last year.

Housing authority meets in private to draft racial-mix counterproposal

By PAIGE ST. JOHN

The Madison County Housing Authority board has decided to go to the Washington, D.C., office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development again with changes it wants on a fair housing agreement.

During a meeting last week, authority commission chairman Reese Hoskin of Collinsville directed authority attorney Joe Hill to draft a letter to the Washington HUD office. The letter will contain statements of concern, recommendations and requests drawn up by authority commissioners at a "working session" held before the scheduled meeting, Hoskin said.

Commissioners spent one and one-half hours last Tuesday night discussing the fair housing agreement in the unannounced "working session," apparently in violation of the Illinois Open Meetings Act.

The "working session" appeared to qualify under the state definition of a meeting of a public body (any gathering of a majority of a quorum held for the purpose of discussing public business).

State law requires at least 24-hour notice be given to the press before such meetings. No such notice was given to newspapers.

During the session, which was attended by the full housing authority board, commissioners and a majority discussed the potential consequences if the authority signs the fair housing agreement as submitted by the Washington, D.C., HUD office.

Authority commissioners refused to be specific on what the requests and recommendations arrived at are. Hoskin later said that the recommendations included deletion of some passages of the HUD fair housing agreement, and wording changes in other passages.

Hill disclosed during the meeting that he made a report during the working session on a discussion he had with the HUD fair housing office attorney, apparently concerning the fair housing agreement.

Nothing more was said concerning the fair housing agreement being pushed for by the Washington HUD office to desegregate public housing in Madison County.

After a special meeting called three weeks ago in an unsuccessful attempt to approve the fair housing agreement, housing authority Executive Director Janet Harolan said the commission was unhappy with wording contradictions in the agreement.

Several clauses of the fair housing agreement state that no discrimination could be made by the authority, she said, but other clauses provide for housing priority in some cases be given to tenants willing to move into housing where they would be a minority.

That contradiction could open the authority up to reverse discrimination lawsuits in Madison County.

In the past, authority commissioners have also objected to signing the housing agreement as submitted by the Washington, D.C., HUD office.

Hoskin said that still remains a concern, and the issue will be addressed again later.

The authority has been hammering out a fair housing agreement with HUD for more than one year. Without the agreement, the Washington HUD office refuses to give clearance for federal modernization funds.

The authority had applied for $4.1 million of federal modernization funds to do sewer, electrical and general upgrading and repair work on county housing projects.

Mrs. Harolan confirmed Tuesday night during the meeting all chances for any modernization funds have been lost this year because no housing agreement was signed by the time the Chicago HUD office began looking at those requests, earlier this month.

Hoskin said he was unhappy the authority had lost the chance to get modernization funds this year. The housing agreement was not close enough to acceptance to push it through in time to qualify for the funding, he said.

HUD is attempting to require the authority to integrate each of its projects to the same racial mix existing county-wide.

Legislation for postnatal diseases testing

Legislation that will continue testing for certain postnatal diseases by the Illinois Department of Public Health has been signed into law by Governor James R. Thompson.

"This bill will continue to give the state the opportunity to detect crippling illnesses in newborn children and is aimed especially at spotting PKU and hypothyroidism, two ravaging diseases that are easily missed without proper, effective testing."

The governor said at a noon Department of Children and Family Services Foster-Adoptive Family luncheon during Youth Day at the Illinois State Fair.

Senate Bill 1288, sponsored by Senator Jack Schaffer of Crystal Lake and Representative Jim Reilly of Jacksonville, removes a sunset provision that would have ended the state's requirement of testing for PKU and hypothyroidism on Dec. 1, 1983.

PKU, or phenylketonuria, occurs about once in 12,000 newborn infants. A baby afflicted with PKU appears normal at birth but is unable to properly use certain food substances needed for growth and development. If this problem is not discovered and treated early in life, the person will almost always suffer from poor physical development and be mentally retarded.

Hypothyroidism occurs about once in every 4,500 newborn infants and is a result of the thyroid gland failing to develop properly or the thyroid hormone being low or absent.

The hormone is needed for growth of the brain and body. When absent, the infant slowly retards in growth and mental capacity. This disease, like PKU, can be treated easily and effectively if detected early.

Also during the luncheon, the governor was presented with a plaque from the Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) for the administration's efforts in preventing mental retardation among newborns.

"I'm honored by this recognition from the association and I thank Don Moss, its executive director, for his help in working with the Thompson administration in fighting PKU and other horrible diseases

Bicyclist hits truck on Benton

Hansel D. Durden, 21, of 2123 Edison Ave., sustained injuries last week when the bicycle he was riding and a pickup truck, operated by Wallace M. Verbruyck, 2316 Gary Ave., collided at the intersection of Benton and 20th Streets.

Verbruyck told police he was driving east on 20th when he heard a "bang" and saw the cyclist rolling off the hood of his vehicle.

Durden was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center and was admitted.

that can be prevented by the kind of cooperation we've had between the state and private groups like the ARC," the governor said.

Mechanic strike continues

About 500 Machinist Union members employed by Metro-East car dealers are no closer to an agreement than they were when the strike began. The Madison-St. Clair Counties Dealers Association offered the mechanics a three-year contract with 50 cent raises in each year. However, the mechanics want a two-year pact with a 70-cent pay hike each year.

This labor strike may well last through the summer since car dealers will not negotiate independently and will only return to the table if a federal mediator is present.

The Sheet Metal Workers Union Local 268 strike was settled last week. The union struck Southern Illinois sheet metal contractors after there was no replacement of a June 30 expired contract.

There is more good news concerning area strikes since other small strikes ended recently. Teamsters Local 825 and Fairmont Park Race Track reported that the Collinsville area track has been open.

Chinese rocket

The first rocket-propelled person is said to have been a 13th century Chinese, Wan Hu, who strapped himself into a "wooden chair" equipped with 47 rockets. On his signal, servants ignited the rocket and off he went. Unfortunately, history does not record the outcome.

Schools are opening. Drivers urged to use extra caution

Motorists should give special attention to safe driving procedures as children return to school this week, cautions the AAA-Auto Club.

In its annual "School's Open" program, designed to make drivers especially aware of children going to and from school, the AAA is urging motorists to give a second thought to and a second look at the hundreds of school children they soon will encounter.

Children are active, inquisitive and impetuous, and never miss an opportunity to explore something that interests them—even if it means venturing into the street.

The "dart out," or sudden appearance of a child in the path of a moving vehicle, is one of the most common causes of motor accidents involving children. To reduce child pedestrian accident potential, drivers should pay closer attention to parked cars, shrubbery or other similar vision obstructions.

Many children know little of pedestrian safety rules, and even those who do are likely to forget them in pursuit of a rolling ball or a wind-tossed school paper. School children generally depend on motorists to exercise safe driving practices and area motorists should be especially alert for children traveling on foot, on bicycles and boarding or alighting from school buses. The AAA offers these safety reminders for motorists:

—When in school zones, watch for reduced speed limit signs that became effective when classes are in session.

—Remember the law about stopping before passing or overtaking a school bus stopped to pick up or discharge children. Violation can result in automatic suspension of driving privileges.

—Watch for youngsters riding bicycles. They may appear suddenly from a blind spot near your car.

—If you are a parent, help your child map out his or her safest way to school. And remember that traffic hazards near schools multiply when children are dropped off and picked up in family cars.

—Remember that school traffic controls such as stop signs, traffic signals, and adult crossing guards are now operating. Our summer driving habits must change to look for and obey these special controls.

—Anticipate the actions of youngsters and be ready for anything by reducing speeds in areas where children are present.

Bi-State given bonding authority to develop 1,200 acre industrial park

The Bi-State Development Agency Thursday became the only authority with the power to issue low-cost, tax-exempt industrial revenue bonds throughout the six county bi-state area surrounding St. Louis. Illinois Governor James R. Thompson signed into law a bill that makes it possible for Bi-State to issue tax-exempt industrial revenue bonds and notes which bear interest at a rate not to exceed 14 percent. Also in the bill were provisions to allow development of industrial facilities, and the construction operation or lease of parking facilities.

Bi-State, because of its compact with the states of Missouri and Illinois, is required to introduce identical legislation in both states when changes are made to the compact. In 1981, legislation identical to the bill signed by Governor Thompson was signed into law in Missouri.

Bi-State has long had the authority to issue public use industrial revenue bonds, but until now could not offer small-issue, tax-exempt bonds and notes for industrial manufacturing or commercial facilities in the metropolitan area. This means that the agency can now provide low-cost financing two to three points below the prime rate for companies seeking fixed asset financing of land, buildings or equipment. The economic development department of Bi-State is available to work with facility planners in securing new construction sites or expansion project. These activities will result in the creation of new jobs for the citizens of the area, a spokesman predicted.

The new authority will allow Bi-State to go full speed ahead in the development of a 1,200 acre industrial park on and adjacent to Bi-State Parks at the airport located in Cahokia. The airport, which is about eight minutes by automobile from the Arch, is St. Louis' downtown airport, and recent and planned improvements are expected to make the industrial park prime land for industrial development.

John Booth, Bi-State general manager with development spoke of the industrial park. "I don't know of any industrial sites that have two mainline railroads next to them. And it has highways two — Interstate 255, which is under construction on one side, and Illinois Highway 3 on the other with a commuter airport in the middle. We expect at least 3,000 and as many as 18,000 new jobs to result from the development of an industrial park over the next 20 years."

Manuel De La O, Bi-State executive director expressed the agency's appreciation for the Illinois leadership that steered the legislation through. "I particularly thank Sen. Sam Vadalabene for his sponsorship in the Senate and Rep. Monroe Plinn for his sponsorship in the House. Thanks also to co-sponsors Sen. Kenneth Hall and Rep. Celeste Stiehl. Many of their constituents will benefit from jobs that will be created as a result of the legislation they approved."

First Vanpool vehicle

The first van assigned under the Madison County Transit Board's Vanpool Service was delivered to its private users during ceremonies Thursday in Edwardsville.

Officials of the transit district and other dignitaries were on hand to greet the passengers of the first vanpool. The van is operated at a monthly cost of $48 per passenger. Passengers save money because they share the costs of operating a single vehicle to get to work each day, a spokesman noted.

The monthly fare covers insurance, maintenance, van rental and gasoline. The driver gets a free ride to and from work and free use of the van on nights and weekends.

Any group which works a distance from their home area can apply for assignment of a van, according to Jon Ford, manager of Madison County Vanpool Service. He said persons wishing more information about the program may call him at 1-800-435-1 or write to 130 Hillsboro, Edwardsville, Ill., 62025.

The transit district also announced Thursday that it has turned the keys of a new Chrysler van over to Specialized Services, Inc., of Alton, which is financed under the Paratransit Funding Assistance Program to assist organizations who provide rides for the elderly, handicapped and other transportation disadvantaged persons not able to use Bi-State buses.

Six Chrysler vans, including one for Granite City, and one for Madison, are to be delivered in the near future. Others are to be assigned to Godfrey, Alton and Edwardsville, it was announced.

The transit programs are funded by a one-quarter cent sales tax imposed by the transit district.

ASSAULT ALLEGED
Eric Webb, 17, of 800 Lincoln Ave., Venice, was charged with assault and disturbing the peace after a disturbance Friday night at an entrance to the Bi-State Apartments in Venice. A security guard said he denied Webb entrance to the new apartment complex because Webb did not live there. He alleged Webb became angry and threatened to get a gun and return. The guard chased him, but lost him. A short time later, Webb allegedly returned to the area with a cap over his head, as though he concealed a weapon. The security guard arrested him and turned him over to Venice police.

ROTTOTILLER GONE
A six horsepower rottotiller worth $250 was stolen from the rear yard at the home of Mack Carpenter, 2620 E. 24th St., he reported at 8:15 a.m. Sunday.

Sasyk answers critics of city's achievements

To the Editor:

We do not make a habit of answering citizens' complaint voiced in a letter to the editor, because we feel that it is a citizen's prerogative to voice their complaint(s) if they feel justified in doing so. However we feel compelled to answer the letter of a lady, who continually makes allegations against the city of Madison without knowing many of the facts and figures she would like everyone to believe she knows.

I would like to set the record straight concerning the proposed budgetary net and ambulance alarm system being implemented by the city of Madison, and while the only rents to be paid by Waggoner for the next 20 years was the payment of the real estate taxes on this property, leaving the city with a net rental receipt figure of zero for 20 years.

And the property was sold to Waggoner, the city council decided to invest a portion of these proceeds in a cable television alarm system, that has the potential of increasing the net receipts of the city above the $18,600 figure mentioned above and these funds will continue to flow into the city of Madison beyond 1989.

The first piece of rental property owned by the city of Madison in our industrial park to be sold was sold to Wilbur Waggoner in December of 1981. According to the lease between Waggoner and the city of Madison, Waggoner was paying the city of Madison approximately $21,600 per year in rental payments and the city of Madison was paying the real estate taxes on this property, which amounted to approximately $3,000 last year, leaving the city with a net rental receipt figure of approximately $18,600 for 1981. This is the net rental receipt figure for the city of Madison which have received from Waggoner until June, 1989, at which time the only rents to be paid by Waggoner for the next 20 years was the payment of the real estate taxes on this property, leaving the city with a net rental receipt figure of zero for 20 years.

And the property was sold to Waggoner, the city council decided to invest a portion of these proceeds in a cable television alarm system, that has the potential of increasing the net receipts of the city above the $18,600 figure mentioned above and these funds will continue to flow into the city of Madison beyond 1989.

In addition to that fact, we will be offering our industries, businesses, and residents a more versatile emergency alarm system, from the ever increasing private line service charges collected by the telephone company for the use of their lines.

One of the very basic principles of finance dictates that you do not incorporate in your general operating budget a lump sum of funds received in one year if you cannot expect to receive a similar amount of funds each year into the future. Instead, you try to invest these lump sum proceeds in a project that will continue producing revenues for many years into the future. This is what the city of Madison is trying to accomplish in this instance, and I am at a loss trying to figure out how this complainant, who works as a bookkeeper, failed to take into consideration.

We are asking the citizens of Madison to evaluate this lady and her husband, who continually criticize our city administration, to ask themselves what these people expect to gain by their constant criticism, and what they have done for anyone since they lived in Venice and moved to Madison (incidentally these people were very unhappy when our administration did not endorse this lady's husband for the township board a number of years ago, and we suspect this may have something to do with their criticism of our city and its programs). We then ask our citizens to evaluate the current city administration and the programs that have been initiated and successfully completed on behalf of the residents of Madison.

As we have often stated, this administration can look with pride on the many accomplishments that have taken place in the city of Madison in our terms of office. We only hope the citizens of Madison will not be swayed and misled by our critics, but will continue to show their confidence in our administration and we will continue to do our best to assure that Madison continues to be an outstanding city in which to live and work.

MAYOR MIKE SASYK
AND THE
CITY ADMINISTRATION

Feels worker give-backs are not the answer

To the Editor:

Management of Granite City Steel has chosen to publicly state its case for worker concessions through a local meeting that was covered by your paper.

One question not answered by the company's presentation, however, was why they turned down a United Steelworkers of America proposal for a new contract that would have saved the steel companies $2 billion. This union proposal was in line with UAW proposals in other areas, and the companies' rejection of this very significant savings to them is incomprehensible if the financial needs which they claim are actually legitimate.

The rejection by the steel industry to save the savings can only lead to further speculation that the steel companies are merely attempting to save the depression in the steel industry to wring concessions from workers that have been the hardest hit by the economic downturn. Serious and legitimate financial needs would have led to serious consideration of the union's proposal. That was not actually the case. Companies throughout our nation have opportunistically taken advantage of the misery suffered by working people and their communities in this severe recession to demand take-aways by using the threat of future job loss to get their way. It appears that the steel companies are seeking to do the same.

It was highly probable that local union presidents would have accepted the $2 billion savings proposal to the industry endorsed by the International Union. But, apparently greed got in the way of the workers' welfare. They wanted everything their way or nothing at all.

No decent union representative could have accepted the devastating concessions demanded by the steel industry. Certainly, the membership of the local unions throughout the country, including those in Granite City Steel, would not have accepted such extreme concessions.

The true interests of steelworkers and this community are not dependent upon the narrow, self-serving, and short-sighted claims of the steel industry. Thoughtful, responsible people of this community will not be influenced by anti-steelworker campaigns.

What Granite City Steel may mistakenly think is good for it is not necessarily good for its workers or the community.

Concessions will not help Granite City Steel to compete. Its workers are already undisputedly the most productive in the world. The manhours per ton of steel produced is 4.2. This is approximately one half the U.S. average.

No concessions from workers whose productivity exceeds all steelworkers in the world will not sell an additional ton of steel. However, a change in public policy will not only sell steel, but it will put people back to work, including those buying in the stores of our community and restore prosperity.

The true interests of steelworkers and this community are not dependent upon the narrow, self-serving, and short-sighted claims of the steel industry. Thoughtful, responsible people of this community will not be influenced by anti-steelworker campaigns.

What Granite City Steel may mistakenly think is good for it is not necessarily good for its workers or the community.

Feels GC occupancy ordinance badly needed

To the Editor:

My husband and I have been residents of Granite City for many years, attending schools, rearing our children, purchasing our home and contributing to the economy of the city.

For the past few years, a gloomy feeling has descended upon us, observing some of the conditions in our city. I refer mainly to the slum areas.

Recently, we have pointed out to our Inspection Department the deplorable conditions of some of the buildings in our neighborhood being used for rental property. Absentee landlords are permitted year after year to rent these buildings with as many as six people in a two-room apartment.

We have been informed that Granite City has no occupancy ordinances and it is nearly impossible to impose any restrictions upon absentee landlords as to the conditions of their property. These landlords collect their rents and put nothing back into the city's economy.

Many of our citizens in the downtown area have put a considerable amount of money into renovation of these older homes. It all seems rather futile when we can't even get an ordinance passed to protect us from greedy landlords who continue to bleed their buildings and the place is in shambles. One house on a block in deplorable condition affects every taxpayer, reducing the value of our homes and gives the impression of a blighted area.

In observing older residential areas in other cities, we have noticed these communities seem to take pride in their older homes. This leads us to believe that other towns do enforce their ordinances in regards to littering, stray dogs and conditions of buildings being used as rental property.

Now, at a time when Granite City is suffering from severe economic depression, taxpayers and elected officials need to work together to make our community more appealing to future homeowners.

We are not asking for unreasonable ordinances, but a tour of downtown Granite City will prove that nothing is being done to keep our city clean and attractive, in the hopes it will attract more permanent residents.

As taxpayers, we are angry that multi-family buildings used as apartments in our neighborhood are left to the owner's discretion as to whether or not they shall be maintained. Granite City can and must do better if we are to survive.

Disagrees with high ambulance license fees

To the Editor:

It's not that I like to put down the officials of Granite City about the job that they are doing running the city, but when they are carelessly dealing with the lives of citizens not living in the city, but in surrounding townships and villages, I think that someone should put his foot down!

The city of Granite City proposes to put an astronomical $2,500 tax on private ambulance services that run through Granite.

Now I can't quite understand them imposing a tax on ambulances that make pickups inside the city limits. I suppose they are scared of the competition totally driving them out of business. But I can't understand a tax for services that do business outside of the city and travel through Granite City enroute to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. This is what I mean by carelessly dealing with the lives of others.

Why should Granite City get a rake off of every business dealing that can get their hands on that affects only surrounding areas, not the city?

If the city wants to tax Campbell Ambulance service for stationing and doing business in Granite City, more power to them, but to the citizens surrounding the city, who you going to stand by and let Granite City ruin your chance for reasonable cost, efficient ambulance service? You refused to let Granite City cheat you with their astronomical fees. Why let them prevent a reasonable cost service from getting started in your community?

Pat on back to Madison police

To the Editor:

I would imagine one of the most ungratifying jobs could be being a police officer. You get talked about, ridiculed, spat on, cursed at, shot at and even punched at by the citizens of the city who is proud of our police force. Last spring, my child got into serious trouble. The City and County of Madison were the cause of the problem. As a parent, I was beside myself with worry and I hurt inside for my child.

"Madison Police," worked with me in this matter. The officers did everything humanly possible for my child and myself. To the strong and severe punishment they gave my child, which was necessary, down to the compassion they showed me as a concerned parent and to all of our family they showed respect. So, I am writing this to thank every one of you on the police force. From our Chief of Police Don Bridgick, to each officer, even down to our dispatchers. Each and every one of you, I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart.

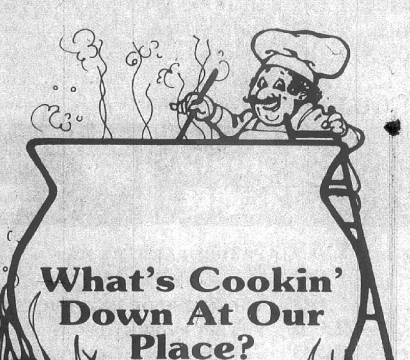

You are doing one heck of a good job protecting our community and respecting its citizens.

So, when the job gets rough and people don't respect the job you do, remember, there is one citizen's family who appreciates each one of you.

County Board OKs tax switch

By JIM SCHLUETER

The Madison County Board took some steps at its meeting last week to take some pressure off of its beleaguered general fund.

Switching three county functions from the general fund to different taxes was one of four guidelines the board gave to its finance committee to help the committee prepare the 1983 budget.

The county will be facing a $2.2 million general fund deficit in 1983, but taking tort liabilities and judgments, unemployment compensation and extension and collection of taxes out of the general fund could reduce next year's budget deficit by $700,000.

Under state law, the county has the power to levy separate taxes for those three functions. Extension and collection of taxes would require a new levy according to Assistant State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith, but tort liabilities and judgments and unemployment compensation could be combined with workmen's compensation, which is already funded by a special tax.

Smith said that while the county will be creating a new tax for extension and collection of taxes, the county will not need to levy a tax in 1982 for the expanded fund that includes tort liabilities and judgments, unemployment compensation and workmen's compensation.

Smith said a $500,000 fund balance now exists in the workmen's compensation fund, which should also cover torts and liabilities and unemployment compensation next year.

"The fact that no levy is needed for workers compensation should compensate for the extension and collection of taxes (the new levy)," Smith said.

Smith also said that if general fund expenditures are cut for 1983, or if other tax fund rates are reduced—there may not be an overall tax increase.

But Smith said the county's most pressing budget problem is to take pressure off of the general fund, which is now at the maximum tax rate of 12 cents per $100 assessed.

valuation. "The main idea is to protect our general corporate fund at all cost, because if it goes broke, we really go broke," Smith said.

The county approved the proposal and also approved other assumptions for the finance committee to work with that included using federal revenue sharing money only for capital expenditures; allocating state replacement tax revenues for the general fund, jail bonds and sewer bonds; and rebuilding the general fund reserves to a level not less than one month's operating expenditures.

General fund reserves have dwindled to $400,000, and the finance committee's goal is to raise the reserves to $1 million next year.

The question of using federal revenue sharing funds only for capital expenditures has been discussed in the past, with many board members saying that federal money should not be used for salaries. They fear that revenue sharing money may be reduced or eliminated in the near future.

However, salaries make up 70 to 75 percent of the general fund, and some board members have said that employee layoffs may be necessary to balance the budget. Board member Don McLean, Edwardsville, said he would rather see some federal money go to pay salaries instead of seeing workers lose their jobs.

The board, however, overwhelmingly approved using federal money solely for capital improvements.

"I don't think we want to get in a position where we must count on revenue sharing for salaries," Chairman Nelson Hagauer of Granite City said. "It can be taken away from us as fast as it was given to us. We could put ourselves in trouble."

Although the board approved the four guidelines when it voted on each proposal separately, the board members originally defeated the guidelines 12-10 when the proposals were lumped together for a single vote.

That first defeat disturbed finance committee chairman William Little, Alton, who said his committee needs some input and suggestions from the board before it can begin its work on the budget.

Herschel Beane, Godfrey, explained that he was opposed to only one of the four guidelines, which was why he voted against the entire package.

The suggestion was then made to have roll call votes all passed easily, except for the removal of the three functions from the general fund, which was approved by a 13-8 vote.

Two Granite City residents were injured in an accident last week at Belt Line and Greenfield Street, Collinsville police say a car driven by Scott Bramstedt, 21, Collinsville, was eastbound on Belt Line when it made a left turn into the path of an auto driven westbound by Patricia Hoppe, 39, Granite City. Bramstedt told police his view was obscured. Two passengers in the Hoppe auto were taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City by Collinsville Fire Department ambulance. $6.28 million payment in replacement tax Checks totaling $6.28 million in corporate personal property replacement taxes are being sent to local units of government as the sixth of eight payments to be made during 1982, according to J. Thomas Johnson, director of the Illinois Department of Revenue.

The total distributed so far this year to the 6,798 cities, counties, school districts and other local taxing bodies is $306.6 million.

Fifty-two percent, the largest share of this year's replacement tax money, goes to the state's 1,012 public school districts.

Coming in second in the amount received are the state's 1,263 municipalities, which receive 20 percent of the total. Next are the state's 102 counties, which receive a little under nine percent; park districts receive five percent; sanitary districts and junior college districts each receive under two percent.

Other districts, each of which received less than one percent of the total, include forest preserves, fire, library, airport, mass transit, hospital, conservation, TB sanatorium, public health, mosquito, street lighting and water authority.

The replacement taxes were authorized by the Illinois General Assembly in August, 1979 to replace funds lost to local governments when the corporate personal property tax was abolished by the 1970 state constitution.

Under the present system, taxes are collected by the department of Revenue and the money is turned over to local governments. Distributions are made eight times a year (January, March, April, May, July, August, October and December).

The replacement taxes are a 2.5 percent income tax on corporations; a 1.5 percent income tax on partnerships, trusts and subchapter S corporations and a .8 percent tax on the invested capital of utilities.

Boy Scout aids disappearing Bluebirds

By ANGELA GRUPAS
of the Press-Record

It is stated in the ever popular song from the "Wizard of Oz" that "somewhere over the rainbow, Bluebirds fly," but realistically this is becoming untrue, for Bluebirds are getting close to extinction. Due to mass insect spraying, icy winter temperatures in the South and late-spring snowstorms all over and the lack of nesting places, Bluebirds, especially Eastern Bluebirds, might not be inhabiting the skies in North America and Canada.

Bluebirds are cousins to the robins and rarely raise their voices. They only fight when they're defending their nests and they usually lose the battle. These little lovable creatures have radiant blue backs, white tails, a red-brown breast and have always represented springtime, happiness and love.

Area resident, Alan Forbes, troop 5 scout, decided to help the small birds and build nesting sites placing them in Edwardsville, Carlinville, Grafton, Flat River, Mo., and Camp Sumner. These friendly but shy birds enjoy living in our wooded fence posts, decaying trees and holey tree limbs. But since man is putting up steel fence posts, tearing down useless trees and replacing open fields with shopping centers and homes, the Bluebirds' nests are also being destroyed and they have nowhere to go. It has been estimated that in the last 40 years, the number of Bluebirds has decreased 90 percent.

If one is under the age of 30 years old, he has probably never seen an Eastern Bluebird, because man is not the only one who has brought the birds to almost extinction. Bluebirds inhabited the area, but the English Sparrow and Starling were also introduced to the area and they crowded out the Bluebird and even destroyed its eggs.

With all the turmoil, the Bluebirds have tried but, they cannot save themselves individually—man needs to save them, and that is exactly what Alan Forbes is doing. With the help of scouts from troops 145, 8, 36, 46, 13 and 102, thirty-nine Bluebird houses were built and placed on Chouteau Island and the Ralph Grange Farm near Edwardsville.

The material used to build the houses were unwanted scraps used by the building trades class at Granite City High School South. From those scraps, a total of 70 houses were constructed.

The houses are built out of weathered wood (Bluebirds prefer this), and dull colored paint or plastic spray can be used to make the houses durable and long-lasting. The construction does not have to be perfect because if the boards do not fit properly, an adequate amount of ventilation will be provided. A one and a half inch hole is cut in the top, small enough so only the Bluebirds may enter, ensures safety. Perches are not needed; sparrows love them, but Bluebirds do not. The size and the construction of the boxes are not as important as the location of the house. Most ornithologists recommend the boxes be placed rather low, as on a fence post, in fairly open spaces, away from houses or barns.

The houses should be placed in appropriate areas beginning the first of March and through the end of May, it was noted.

As Alan and his helpers are aware, there may be "other inhabitants in the boxes since they are placed so low to the ground. Wasps, ants, a pair of mice and three hundred sparrows were found in a few of the Bluebird houses made by Forbes. Also, five families of wrens and two families of Chickadees were reared in a few other houses.

However, Ed Meyer of Mt. Olive, formerly of Mitchell, Ill., was proud to have five Bluebird eggs on his property.

"I have been married for 50 years and cannot remember the last time I saw a Bluebird on my farm, until the summer of 1982, that is," Meyer stated.

Through the entire project, Tom Hayden, Bluebird specialist from Collinsville, supervised Forbes in making the Bluebird boxes.

The project was a success because nine nestings accounting for approximately 35 Bluebirds were spotted. There were no nestlings accounted for at Chouteau Island or Edwardsville, however.

Forbes plans to expand the existing Bluebird trails and begin another Bluebird trail at Camp Sumner. All the existing boxes will be cleaned out, if they have been inhabited, and also repaired.

If anyone is interested in starting a Bluebird trail, persons should contact South Western Illinois Audubon Chapter, located in Granite City, at 381-2297 or 345-0294.

Harold E. Briggs, regional superintendent of schools, announced all persons who make application for an Illinois school bus driver's permit must attend an initial 12-hour School Bus Driver Training Workshop within 45 school days from date of application. This is a state law. Any person interested in attending a specific workshop should notify the Regional Superintendent's office to be enrolled.

It is also a mandatory requirement for each person employed as a bus driver in the State of Illinois to attend an annual 2-hour refresher workshop after the initial 12-hour course is completed.

Madison County has four (4) certified instructors to conduct these workshops. Madison County is allotted ten (10) 12-hour workshops for the 1982-83 school year, which are funded by the State of Illinois. The schedule of these workshops is set up in order to have one every month during the school year, at various locations throughout the county.

A schedule of 2-hour workshops is not available at this time, however one will be developed in the very near future and a copy can be obtained from the Regional Superintendent's office or the bus driver's employer.

Program on sharks to air Tuesday

National Geographic Special: "The Sharks," the highest-rated program in PBS history, returns to KETC-Channel 9 on Tuesday, Aug. 24 at 7 p.m. and Sunday, Aug. 29 at 4 p.m. (original broadcast: January 1982). Through research and experiences of the world's leading shark experts, "The Sharks" provides new perspectives on man's feared enemy of the deep.

According to the hour-long program, sharks are victims of sensationalist publicity. Prowling the oceans' depths or swimming near sandy shores, these awesome-looking creatures rarely live up to their reputations as killers. Moreover, the sharks are astounding marvels of nature, functioning in some extraordinary and little-understood ways.

The Sharks introduces people to scientist and expert divers who dare to enter the sharks' watery realm with fascinating results and new data on how sharks feed, rest, and give birth, and why they attack.

Among the underwater scenes viewers will see are shark sharks "preying" in caves; a host of hammerheads in eerie profile; blue sharks feeding on spawning squid; and a rare look at the largest fish in the ocean—the whale shark. Viewers will witness a great white shark seemingly attacking a cameraman in a metal cage, and on a South Pacific island, young boys riding on the backs of nurse sharks in shallow-water pens.

People fear sharks, says those who study them, because they know so little about them. Statistics show that relatively few sharks ever attack humans, and when they do, it may be because there is a provocation we do not understand.

Producer Nicolas Nixon states that we must develop our knowledge and respect for these highly diverse animals, not simply reaffirm our longstanding fear of them.

National Geographic Special: "The Sharks" is locally funded by Center Bank (Aug. 24) and Clayton Federal Savings and Loan Association (Aug. 29).

Madison hopes to offer skill classes for the unemployed

By PAT HAY LUTZ
of the Press-Record

The widespread unemployment in the Quad-Cities area may have a surprise advantage, thanks to the Madison School Board. The board members decided Thursday to look into the possibility of providing classes for the jobless with the hopes of putting them to work by giving them more specialized training and retraining.

By offering classes in fields such as electricity, the board members felt that they could help people acquire skills they might not have time to learn otherwise. According to Superintendent John Palchick, "We welcome the opportunity to train any member of the community. This program would allow persons 18 to 65 to sharpen their present skills or to learn a new one."

Although the details of the program have not been made specific, the board discussed offering a schedule which would allow the on-the-job training for the participants. Board Member Edward Newsome vocalized the attitude of the others. "I think it is an excellent suggestion and we should definitely pursue it."

Expressing sympathy for the economic difficulties of the people in Madison, the board voted not to raise the price of plate lunches by five cents, as was previously discussed. Instead, by changing the prices of the ala carte menu, members hope to make the full lunch more economically priced.

Superintendent Palchick explained the change, saying, "We can sell the lunch plate at the present price if we adjust the ala carte. We simply priced ourselves out of the lunch."

Parents with children in kindergarten through the third grade, however, will be paying a workbook fee this year. According to Dolores Folkerts, curriculum director, the fee will be $5 for the kindergarten books and $10 for the books in grades one through three.

"We have not had to do this before, but we have to ask the parents to help us this year because the costs are so high," Mrs. Folkerts said.

She indicated that the portion the parents are being asked to pay is less than one-half of the total cost.

Mrs. Folkerts also explained the "Assertive Discipline" workshop which Madison teachers will be attending during the first week of school. Dr. William Burkey of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will be conducting the workshop, which will enable teachers to develop, understand and utilize their own methods of discipline.

"Teachers sometimes have troubles dealing with the disciplinary methods of other people, and cannot effectively discipline their students," Mrs. Folkerts stated.

This workshop will help teachers discover their own philosophy of discipline and develop their own unique rules and policies." The workshop also will outline methods and suggestions for reverse discipline, which will reward children who abide by the rules. "Those children who misbehave all of the time get all of the attention," Mr. Folkerts said. "We want to show the children who do behave some positive attention."

Two church Bible School closes

A cooperative Vacation Church School venture of the First United Presbyterian Church and St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ was held at St. Peter Church, this month. There was a total enrollment of 40.

The theme of this year's school, "Come Follow Jesus," was presented by the staff. Teachers and helpers from the two churches included Marilyn Griffith, Debbie Crittendon, Jackie Hefflin, Sue Joseph, Jeanne Venne, Cheryl Tharp, Shirley DeCoursey, Ann Erickson, Leah Barnes, Cindy Prichard, Mary Causey, Marsha Yates, Karen Brown, Marie Ivis, John Rodick, Leah Barnes, Donna Skirball, Judy Werth, Rob Curtis, Barb Houston, Mary McIlroy, and Barbara McDonald.

Hayes, Skip Kidman, Min Lee, Evelyn Smith and Bill Hood. Directors for the school were Nancy Barnes, Ellen Mae Hood, Karen Anders and Linda Watson. Rev. James Brown and Rev. David M. McDonald were daily worship leaders.

The children supported a community mission project with the school. The directors voted to donate all contributions to the pediatric floor of St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Some of the classes toured the hospital to see where their gifts would go, and on a Friday morning, Carol Showalter, pediatric supervisor, was presented with the gifts from each class.

A nutritional snack program was held again this year, the highlight of which was a watermelon fest on the church lawn. Napkins and cups for the snacks were donated by American Heritage Bank, First National Bank, McDonald's, Burger King, and Burger Chef.

The closing event, an open house visitation, allowed parents and family to see classroom, crafts, sanctuary time and singing, and to sample snacks with their children.

Charge man in state complaints

Two state complaints charging Michael O. Mull, 23, of 3406 Lincoln Ave. with criminal damage to property and battery were filed early Thursday in connection with an incident at the home of Nancy Holt, 226 State St.

Mull allegedly kicked in a door at the Holt apartment, damaging the door and frame, and struck Mrs. Holt on the head, pushing her over a coffee table.

He was arrested near the Granite City Police station and was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was admitted for treatment of a self-inflicted laceration to the right hand, police said.

For more information, interested persons may call the Tri-City Area YMCA at 876-2200, step 2001 Edison Ave. to register.

Exchange student finds Finland exciting, but food a bit odd

By ANGELA GRUPAS
of the Press-Record

Living in an unfamiliar country, miles away from home, might seem a little scary for some people, but Bibi Christoff, local youth who just returned from a year's stay in Finland, has to disagree. "I really enjoyed living in a foreign country, even though the culture was very different from the American way of life," Miss Christoff stated.

Finland is located very near the Arctic circle, so the climate remains on the cool side year-round. "It began to snow Oct. 28 and snow remained on the ground until June 11," Bibi remarked. "During the winter, the sky remained dark and the sun never fully rose. From 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. were the only hours with sunlight," Bibi added. Finland is called the "Land of the Midnight Sun." That is very appropriate," she noted.

The modes of transportation varied considerably from the States. "Everyone rides bicycles, even when there is snow and ice on the ground," Bibi said. The price for a driver's license ($800) was the cause for the lack of automobiles. "Kids are still excited about getting their driver's license, but they don't like cruising around like American kids do," she stated.

Finland is a very modern country and it has many of the same modern conveniences as America, except Finnish homes lack clothes dryers. "The washers are so small, only one pair of jeans can be washed at a time, and there are absolutely no dryers," said Bibi. It can take up to five hours to dry one garment, she said.

While in Finland, since June 1981, Bibi stayed with two host families. "Both families had daughters, but they were in the same grade as Bibi. The area in which Miss Christoff resided is classified as the Northern part of Finland, but it is far from North."

The closer one gets to the Arctic circle, the less the area is inhabited. "Really, Seinajoki (town where Miss Christoff lived) is in the lower region of Finland," she stated. Finland also is known as the "Land of 1,000 Lakes." "In the area where I lived, almost everyone owned a beach house. It is just normal," she added.

The climate and different culture were not as hard to get used to as the food was, she relates. Finnish people enjoy eating something that is called "blood pancakes," made of flour and cows' blood. "That was something that I could not tolerate smelling, let alone eating," recalled Bibi. Without adequate refrigeration, some regular foods were odd tasting in Finland. "They don't have any McDonald's or other fast food restaurants, but they do have a 112-gram burger (instead of a quarter-pounder)," stated Miss Christoff.

"When she returned home, the whole family noticed she was eating a lot faster than before," Dee Christoff, her sister, recalled.

Ms. Christoff was pleased that her daughter chose to become an exchange student. "She filled out a form for the Rotary Club when she was only 14 years old, too young to be considered at that time, but with her persistence, she was able to be an exchange student her junior year," recalled Ms. Christoff. "My daughter and I both felt that it was time to explore another country, and why not Finland."

"I missed home and my parents, but I called regularly and I made myself and me happy," Miss Christoff stated.

The entire school system there contrasts that of America, she says. Children begin school at the age of 7 and enter first grade. They advance into middle school and after completing ninth grade, they are no longer required to attend school. Those earning high grades while in middle school will be accepted into what is equivalent to a junior college. Students with less than average grades will attend some type of trade or business school.

While in junior college, the first two years are considered study years and there is no emphasis on grades. The third year is entirely devoted to studying for the national test, which must be passed in order to be considered for admittance to a university. After further entrance exams, only the top students will be accepted in one of the four universities in the country.

"I entered the first class and received an honorary graduate of the third class. I received a graduation cap with the country's colors (blue and white) on it. This is a real honor in Finland," she explained.

"I learned a lot while I was in Finland and if I had to live my life over, I would do it again," Miss Christoff concluded.

HOME FROM FINLAND. Bibi Christoff wears a tee shirt and graduation cap from Finland and holds a wooden map, made by blind people of the "Land of the Midnight Sun."

Boys caught with stolen blue jeans

A 16-year-old, Eagle Park youth and two Madison boys, 13 and 14, were taken into custody at 4:40 p.m. Saturday near the K-Mart store after allegedly taking several pairs of blue jeans, most with Jordache and Calvin Klein labels.

An off-duty police officer saw the 13-year-old taking price tags off shirts in the store and took the boy to the service desk, where the officer took the jeans, shorts and three football shirts. He was charged with theft.

Three others, who appeared to be acting suspiciously outside the building, also were questioned. One of the boys, 13, was released without charges.

Boys 16 and 13 years old had several pairs of jeans in their possession and were charged with theft. The 16-year-old was released on a $52 cash bond, and the younger boys were released to their parents on notices to appear at hearings.

Venice teachers at orientation

Venice public school teachers attended an all-day workshop with registration, coffee and donuts, at 8:30 this morning and Superintendent of the Schools Robert N. Vickers, welcomed the teachers.

Local teachers heard REO specialist from the Illinois

State Board of Education (ISBE). Pat Glen, Joe Frattoloni, specialist in the Urban and Ethnic Section of ISBE, and a representative from the district's new insurance carrier, Anne Schmidt.

Venice students will begin school, tomorrow, Aug. 24, with a half-day session. High school students will begin school with an orientation at 9 a.m., followed by classes until 12:15 p.m.

Grade school children (grades 4 through 8) will report to school at 9:15 a.m. and will be dismissed at 11:50 a.m. Children in kindergarten through third grade will begin school at 9:30 a.m. and be dismissed at 11:30 a.m.

A district-wide faculty meeting will begin after lunch on Tuesday, at 1:15 p.m.

Full day classes for the students will begin Wednesday, Aug. 25.

News notes

Charles Haynes of Alton resigned last week as Madison County Housing Authority social services director. In that post for six years, he plans to move from this area and to further his education.

Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagmann has recommended David A. Dietzel of Wood River, assistant county highway superintendent, to succeed Super. Les Miller, who is entering private engineering consulting work Dec. 1. Dietzel must pass a test administered by the state before assuming the new office.

Awards being voted by a Madison County jury to railroad workers exceed $44 million and are continuing to mount. Norfolk & Western was sued after a chemical spill occurred near Sturgeon, Mo., in 1979. Forty-seven persons cited various illnesses after cleaning the area around a ruptured tank car and alleged receipt of warnings about hazards. Jurors are deciding three cases each day, with many of the awards amounting to $15 million.

Granite City Optimists and Rotarians will hold their annual benefit Camelot auction at 5:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 9, at Sunset Hills Country Club.

Mary and Cathy Turk, Mary Koepfer and Chuck Edwards, local students active in Teens Encounter Christ, sang at last week's Granite City Rotary luncheon and Mary Turk spoke on "A commitment to share." Tom Thebeau president and Larry Miller was program chairman.

The Illinois National Guard Study Commission will hold a public hearing at 21 SUIVE University Center on possible locations where new armories could be constructed, replacement of existing ones and new facilities, and are to remain in use.

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency signed an agreement Thursday to take over federal programs which regulate hazardous air pollution and emissions from newly-constructed industries.

WARRANT ARREST
Harriet E. Leibold, 32, of 2501 W. Washington Ave. was arrested at 23rd street and Washington Avenue at 4:25 p.m. Friday on a warrant issued for her to appear in a 1981 case. She was released at 12:30 p.m. Saturday upon posting $102 cash bail.

Last chance to pay locally

Township tax collectors are continuing to accept property tax payments until Aug. 31, reported Granite City, Venice, Nameoki and Chouteau collectors.

Although the Aug. 18 deadline for first tax installment payments has passed, Venice Township Tax Collector Zella Niehaus requests residents to make second payments now, so they can be distributed immediately to local taxing districts.

The second tax payment is due Oct. 18. At the start of September, all collections will be made by Madison County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus. First payments can still be made to the local collectors with the proper penalties for late payments. Mrs. Niehaus said an early second payment made to townships now, before the county takes over the function, will "really help" the funding problems of districts within the townships. The township tax collectors are reported to be accepting payments at the collector's office, 422 Madison Ave., open from 9 a.m. Monday through Friday. Payments can no longer be made at the First National Bank in Granite City, except on Aug. 27 during normal bank hours.

—In Granite City, payments can be made during banking hours at the First Granite City National Bank, Granite City Trust & Savings Bank, American Heritage Bank of Granite City and Colonial Bank of Granite City. Hours of the city treasurer's office, 222 N. Main St., are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

—Nameoki Township is accepting tax payments at the five Quad-City area banks listed above and at the township office, 4250 Highway 185.

—In Chouteau Township, Collector Charles Bedwell will accept taxes from his office at 801 S. Main St., Roxana, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

$1,000 BURGLARY
Sheet metal layout tools, wrenches and sockets set in three separate boxes, valued at $1,000, were stolen from the garage at the home of Donald Thompson, 2531 Pontoon Road, according to a report at 4:25 p.m. Thursday, by the owner. The tools were apparently gained through a rear door in the garage.

Concentrated speed enforcement resumes

"55" The Magic Number? The number 55, can indicate the month of July. To most drivers it means the National Mandated Speed Limit (55MPH). To those who maintain accident statistics, it shows the number of months in which Illinois has been able to show a continued reduction in traffic fatalities. During the month of July, 146 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents in Illinois, a total of 884 as of August 1, 1982. This is 173 less than last year during the same period. District 11 had 16 fatalities in July, a total of 63 as of 1

Aug., 1982. This is 15 less than last year during the same period. Captain Laimutus A. Nargelinas, commander of the Illinois State Police, District 11, reported that the fatalities in the district during July included one car-train, three pedestrians, four motorcycleists and 1 multiple fatal accident (three dead).

There are many factors which can lead to an accident but speed is the major factor which determines the severity of the injuries. In a continued effort to maintain compliance to the 55-mph speed limit, the Illinois State Police will again utilize the Concentrated Speed Enforcement Program (CSEP). This program will commence Sept. 1 and continue during the month of October, 1982, and March and April, 1983.

Rail yard relocation fund plan forwarded to Reagan

A second $20 million preference share bond plan for railroads to sell preferred bonds to the Federal Railroad Administration. The agency then advances funds for the work and the railroads can wait several years before starting to retire the bonds. Interest rates are projected at about three percent.

The bond procedure calls for railroads to sell preferred bonds to the Federal Railroad Administration.

The agency then advances funds for the work and the railroads can wait several years before starting to retire the bonds. Interest rates are projected at about three percent.

The Metro Area Rail Gateway Enterprise (MARGE) project included major expansion of the Terminal Railroad Association's Madison yards.

MARGE also plans to rehabilitate the Merchants Bridge, a railroad span connecting Madison and St. Louis, and improve Conrail "piggyback" facilities near Fairmont City.

Railroads, the federal government, Illinois and Missouri are cooperating to help ease delays in transferring rail freight to, from and through the St. Louis metropolitan area.

The overall plan totals several hundred million dollars, with substantial savings to be derived by shippers and consumers.

The U.S. previously approved issuance of $20 million in share bonds and appropriated $5 million for engineering work. The design and plans have been completed but some details of the construction proposals remain to be decided.

CHARGES BURGLARY SUSPECT FROM HOME
After being gone from his residence about 10 minutes, John Jackson, 2214 Madison Ave., returned home at 9:50 p.m. Saturday and found a youth inside. Jackson chased the intruder out the front door, which he led to a teens, about six feet tall with blond, shoulder-length hair, and was wearing a football-style jersey, blue jeans and a baseball cap.

Entry was gained by climbing through a window over a door which leads to a hallway. Apparently nothing was taken, Jackson said.

PARKED CAR DAMAGED
A car with headlights and a window were smashed on 1979 auto of Eddie Ray, 704 Iowa St., Madison, he reported at 1:25 a.m. Sunday. The vehicle was parked in the 2000 block of Grand Avenue at the time of the vandalism.

Additional GC Council actions

Additional Granite City Council discussions and actions last week included the following.

Edwards Street, which serves as one of only two entrances to Onchango Homes, will be completely reconstructed. A bid by C. D. Peters Construction Co. to begin work this fall was accepted by the council last week. Curbs and new sidewalks are planned. A new street bed and oil rock surface will be installed. The city engineer said no starting has yet been set, but work may begin mid-September. The project should help to prevent stormwater flooding on Edwards Street.

A bid also was accepted to reneat the city's Civil Defense storage building, 1411 Nineteenth St., the former site of the fire department.

Aldermen voted to prohibit parking between city sidewalks and streets. No vehicle will be allowed to park in that area when the curb is more than four inches in height. The law does not apply to streets less than 24 feet in width.

Mobile home occupants or owners who illegally install such homes before securing a city zoning permit, now will have 48 hours to remove their mobile homes before facing a $100 per day fine. Both owners and occupants will be jointly liable for the fine. The ordinance was suggested several weeks ago by Fifth Ward Alderman Jake Varadian, who was concerned that a recent permit was granted for a mobile home, which had been illegally installed through a "temporary" permit issued by the city. The city has no zoning law to allow such permits.

Aldermen turned down a request to issue a mobile home permit on a lot located in the 2100 block of Bryan Ave. Although the request had been cleared by the Inspection Department, Varadian and Fourth Ward Alderman Warren Decatur said the request failed to meet zoning specifications.

Sick leave taken at the city's Wastewater Treatment Plant last month decreased by 92 percent, in comparison to the same time last year, according to a written report prepared by plant Superintendent Terrance McMillan.

A 92-signature petition protesting a new stop sign posted at Nameoki Drive and Sinclair Avenue, was presented by an upset resident from Nameoki Drive. The resident objected to emissions from heavy trucks, which he said blacken his home located along the truck route. He also protested the heavy flow of trucks, pointing to that as the cause of damaged foundations and falling plaster in homes located along the truck route. Fourth Ward Alderman Sharon Perjak said the stop sign was installed to protect children in the area from traffic.

A motion to protest the Illinois-American Water Company's proposed 5.7 percent rate hike was approved. Alderman opposition was conveyed at the Sept. 27 Illinois Commerce Commission public hearing in Springfield.

Mrs. Climaco's name allowed on Nov. 2 election ballot

Sandra Climaco's name will appear on the Nov. 2 general election ballot as a third-party candidate opposing U.S. Rep. Melvin Price (D-East St. Louis) and challenger Robert Gaffner, a Greenville Republican, a five-judge panel unanimously decided Thursday afternoon.

The panel threw out a challenge filed by Gaffner which alleged that Mrs. Climaco's petitions were distributed in violation of election rules.

Gaffner contended Mrs. Climaco and her husband, Cesar, circulated petitions for her candidacy in the March Democratic primary, so they were barred from circulating petitions for her candidacy in November.

The panel found that 194 of the petition signatures were invalid for that reason, but found enough remaining signatures to leave her on the ballot.

In another development last week, Gaffner said he would sue the late "deep shock over a statement made by an aide" to Price.

Gaffner says Bill Hart, administrative assistant to the congressman, was quoted in the Belleville News-Democrat Friday as saying he would sue Gaffner this election to be debated and there are no charges worthy of response.

Gaffner cited 18.7 percent unemployment in Granite City as one example of a problem worthy of debate and said he would sue Gaffner if he has not seen fit to introduce legislation to assist the ailing U.S. steel industry.

Citing Hart's statement, Gaffner said, "A statement like that makes me wonder how out of touch Mr. Price and his office are with the district. Don't they realize that we have the highest unemployment rates since the Great Depression?"

He also contended that Cong. Price has not sought foreign markets for Illinois coal. "Maybe if Mr. Price would come home more often, he would be more aware of the many serious problems facing the people who he was elected to represent," Gaffner charged.

"I feel that it's time Cong. Price stops hiding behind his staff and starts addressing the problems facing the people of the Metro-East. The 21st District does have major problems, neither Mr. Price nor Bill Hart can deny this and I feel this district deserves an active Congressman, not just a Congressional staff," the Republican candidate concluded.

After completion of the SIMARPC study is completed, the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs will distribute the information and hold public meetings in affected areas.

be identified according to the depth of underlying coal mines and the soil or overburden formations above mined-out areas, she added.

After completion of the SIMARPC study is completed, the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs will distribute the information and hold public meetings in affected areas.

A model zoning ordinance may be adopted in a local building code for siting development and local governments may want to revise it to fit their own needs, she said. The ordinance would allow a fire which damaged a vacant two-story business building at 1401 Madison Ave., Madison, last week.

A neighbor reported that she saw a white man, who had a large build and short curly hair, enter a rear door of the building at 5:40 p.m. Tuesday. He carried a large flashlight.

He emerged a short time later and left in a blue pickup truck. Smoke was seen coming from the building within moments.

During fire-fighting efforts, police found a gasoline can containing approximately 2 1/2 gallons of gasoline inside the building and left in the pickup truck. Investigators said there are signs of a small explosion which blew window glass outward and bent metal frames out.

Photos of possible suspects have been shown to the witness, but no arrests have

Study mine subsidence

The Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission of Collinsville has been selected to conduct a $26,500 study to identify areas in the state prone to coal mine subsidence and develop a model zoning ordinance to minimize property damage.

According to Governor James R. Thompson, who announced the study, "The metropolitan East St. Louis area has been especially heavily undermined in the past, and new methods are needed to plan for eliminating or minimizing subsidence damage in the future throughout the state."

The Illinois State Police District 11 headquarters at Maryville and one victim of mine subsidence, Walls have cracked, a radio tower tilted and extensive repairs have been required.

In 1979, the Illinois General Assembly passed legislation requiring insurance companies in the state to provide low-cost mine subsidence insurance. In 32 counties with more than one percent of land undermined, an optional mine subsidence rider was required on homeowner's insurance policies.

Granite City residents were advised, however, not to purchase the coverage, since there are no known mines in the bottom.

The initial thrust of the plan commission's work will be to educate groups, citizens and developers on the effects of mine subsidence and how to limit its damage, according to Sue Massie, director of the

Time to discover new Horseshoe Lake, officials say

Horseshoe Lake State Park has too often been ignored — branded with a bad reputation — by its neighboring communities, according to Lynn Wright, park site supervisor. He says it is time residents visit the facilities and judge the park for themselves.

Lynn Wright, who has been in charge of the site for the last year, said one of his main goals is to give a family atmosphere to the area. He believes he is succeeding, at least with the physical development of the park. The popular attitude to discard the area as a recreational choice is another matter, he said.

The park has had to contend with, among other obstacles, a reputation for being a homosexual gathering site, for being plagued by low water levels and periodic fish kills, and for offering few developed recreational facilities.

Coincidentally, another possible roadblock to the state's attempt to complete the park was the reason for Wright's invitation to speak last week to the Sewer and Drainage Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

Wright was responding to published statements made last month by Committee Member William Nichols, owner of lakefront property, who said a zoning dispute could complicate the last leg of the park's acquisition plan. The purchase of Nichols' 524 acres would complete the state's plan to obtain 80 percent ownership of the lake and surrounding property.

(Wednesday, the Madison County Board denied Nichols' request to move topsoil from land, where he intended to operate a catfish-raising pond. Nichols has said that difficulty with the permit could cause him to oppose sale of his lake property to the state park.)

The remaining 20 percent of lakefront property is owned by the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corp., which pours clear treated water into the lake.

A Department of Conservation employee with the Land and Historic Sites Division, Wright appeared before the Chamber committee to give the latest status report on what has become, in a way, a forgotten state park.

"I'm trying to make people recognize the area as a state park," Wright said. "We have a unique area here."

Part of the park's unique appeal is its close proximity to several cities. Roaming "just right in the middle" of urban areas are deer, fox, beavers, abundant muskrats, and even a few mink, Wright said.

Cities within a short drive of the park's main entrance on Highway 111 include Granite City, Collinsville, Madison, Venice and East St. Louis.

According to Wright, St. Louis bird-watching drive to Horseshoe Lake to see some comparatively rare varieties, among them the English Sparrow and the Black Crown Night Heron, Granite City, in fact, serves as a special meeting spot for the Black Crown.

"I just don't think people are aware the park is as developed as it is," Wright, in an interview Tuesday, said.

One problem may be that Granite City already has a good park, but the supervisor emphasized Horseshoe Lake provides a fairly "good park" atmosphere itself.

Fishing, boating and picnicking facilities have all undergone noticeable improvements within the last few years, according to the site supervisor. Two boat ramps are available for public use. A third one is available to duck hunters. Boats are restricted to 10-horsepower limit, a state regulation.

Main picnic areas with shelters and barbecue grills are located at the park's main highway entrance and on an island in the middle of the lake. Two 20 by 40-foot shelters each house four to six picnic tables.

This spring, a newly-developed North Shore picnic area opened. Next spring, 29 trailer camping pads and 20 tent camping spaces will be available. Construction is completed at the site on the south end of the island, Wright said, but will not open until March or April, depending on the Spring thaw.

In the development stage this summer is a three-mile combined bird-watching and hiking trail on the island. The path will be divided into three sections to allow shorter or more ambitious walks.

A Collinsville resident, volunteering his time this summer, is busy laying out the trail, which will feature woodchip paths and guide signs. The volunteer is developing a pamphlet to explain to visitors the sights and sounds to be observed.

A portion of the path is accessible to the public now. The completed trail should be ready in the Spring.

The island also holds an undeveloped 12-acre Indian village, cited in a 1975 archaeological survey. Some graves have been discovered at the location. The land was in crop production when the survey was released, and the area has since been allowed to remain relatively undisturbed. For the time being, however, visitors are being discouraged from touring the area. A second potential archaeological dig, an Indian Mound, can be found on the east shore of the lake.

The availability of funding and scholarly interest will determine the immediate future of both sites, Wright said.

A feasibility study will determine the future of Wright's plans for a special youth camping area, tentatively set for the northern end of the island. "We have to look at the accessibility and the impact on the area first."

Two active hunting programs have been in operation for duck and dove hunters for the last few years. A third program, for muskrat trapping, began last year. About 1,500 hunters used the park last year.

Twenty-seven duck blind positions are annually awarded through a public drawing held in June in preparation for a 30-day hunting season, usually starting in late October. Hunters who do not win the lottery are eligible for unclaimed hunting blinds on a daily basis. After the first week of hunting, Wright said, it is unusual for a hunter not to find an unclaimed spot.

The same is true during the September dove hunting season. The birds are hunted in a 45-acre sunflower field on the island. Forty hunters are allowed to participate each day.

The supervisor also is considering a youth hunting program to "to allow youths to hunt and experience hunting without having to contend with the adult hunter." Wright hopes to begin the program, intended for those 16 and under, within a year.

Teenagers have contributed to Horseshoe Lake's share of problems, according to Wright. He said groups have violated the park's 10 p.m. curfew to gather and drink. The state has installed gates on the north shore, which are closed nightly after the curfew.

The Department of Conservation has assigned a special temporary watchman for the park this summer. Unfortunately, Wright said, when one area is closed, violators manage to find another entrance.

Another continuing problem for the park is illegal trash dumping. Department of Conservation police officers and the Horseshoe Lake staff are conducting their own campaign against the litterers by handing out tickets, carrying minimum $50 fines.

Wright said that staff members often go through the discarded trash in search of any item that could help identify violators. Area residents also are cooperative in recording the license numbers of trash dumpers.

Attendance at the park this year has been averaging between 4,500 and 5,000 a month, said Wright. Most of the visitors picnic at the park picnic grounds or fish for the spring crappie or summer bluegill and channel catfish.

He said he would guard against overuse as vehemently as lack of participation. Wright noted that the park has not yet reached its potential audience and invited local residents to at least give the park a chance.

YMCA swimming classes offered

"Could your child swim to safety if he fell in a pool or pond in your neighborhood? What would happen if he or she fell in while fishing?" Karen Smith of the Tri-Cities YMCA asks.

"Children can enjoy swimming all year long at the Tri-Cities Area YMCA. All children should know how to swim and know related water safety skills. "Fall swimming classes begin on Monday, Sept. 6. Classes are available for everyone age 6 months to senior citizens and will meet twice a week for four weeks," she said.

Barbecuing is American tradition

By BOB GONKO

The romance associated with cowboys cooking on the range is so great that it could easily be at the root of our mania for meals prepared and eaten outdoors.

The chuck wagon tailgate has its present-day counterpart in the station wagon tailgate. And the cowboy cooks have their counterpart in the neighborhood men building a good fire, maneuvering the charcoal, adjusting the grill and calling — when the meat's done just right — "Come and get it!"

The barbecue is the one meal pioneered by men.

The word itself would seem to come from the French phrase, barbe a queue, a reference to the way a barbecued animal is spitted from the barbe to the whiskers to the tail.

But some word detectives argue that the word's origin is Spanish, from barbacoa, the name, in parts of Central and South America, for a framework of green wood on which meat or fish would be roasted or dried.

Where the barbecue still exists as an elaborate institution, as in Texas and some other parts of the South and Southwest, it continues to be a feast of gigantic proportions. One good example, is a cattle rancher from near San Antonio, Tex., Felix Real, who would devote a long afternoon to preparing a barbecue. He made his own barbecue sauce in a bucket, using two quarts of cooking oil, two quarts of vinegar, the juice of six lemons, six chopped onions, a small bottle of Worcestershire sauce and a quarter of a bottle of A-1 Sauce. He rubbed the meat with salt and pepper and allowed it to sit for an hour before putting it on the fire.

For the next three hours at 15-minute intervals, Real brushed each piece of meat with the sauce, using a small paint brush, and turned it over. He did this with long-handled tongs; a fork might have punctured the crust and allowed juice to escape. An hour before the meat was to be served, he let the fire burn very low and added half a pound of butter and two bottles of ketchup to the sauce. He said he couldn't do this any sooner, because butter and ketchup are fine for forming a crust but leave a burnt flavor when exposed to high heat. The result was meat enclosed in a crust of baked-on sauce, crisp and juicy.

That sort of barbecuing is for festive occasions, of course. It would be much too much trouble for everyday eating.

SPICY SAUCE

- 3 6-oz. cans tomato paste
- 3 cans water (2½ cups)
- ¼ cup vinegar
- 3 tbsps. Worcestershire sauce
- 3 tbsps. butter
- 2 tbsps. onion flakes
- 2 tbsps. celery flakes
- 1 tsp. black pepper
- ¼ tsp. allspice
- ½ tsp. cinnamon
- ½ tsp. chili powder
- 1 tsp. paprika
- 1 tsp. dry mustard
- ½ tsp. nutmeg
- 2 tps. barbecue spice
- ½ tsp. garlic salt
- Dash MSG
- ¼ tsp. red pepper or cayenne, optional

Combine all ingredients in saucepan and mix well; cover. Slowly bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 1 hour or longer if time permits. Use to baste ribs, pork chops or chicken. Makes about 5 cups.

BEARD'S BASIC BARBECUE SAUCE

- 5 to 7 cloves garlic, chopped
- 2 tps. coarse salt
- 2 onions, finely chopped
- 1 cup olive oil or peanut oil
- 1 cup tomato sauce
- 1 cup Worcestershire sauce
- 1 cup red wine vinegar
- ¼ cup brown sugar or honey
- 1 tsp. rosemary

- ¼ tsp. thyme
- 3 tbsps. chopped green pepper
- ¼ cup chopped parsley

Press the garlic into the salt and add the onions. Heat the oil in a skillet, add the garlic and onion mixture, and let it wilt down and blend thoroughly. When the garlic and onions are soft, add the remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil, lower the heat, and simmer for 20 minutes. Taste for seasoning. You may strain it if you wish, or put it in the container of an electric blender to get a smooth mixture.

To serve: Use sauce hot or cold with either meat or fish. Baste with it and serve with the finished dish. Makes about 4 and one-half cups.

Variations

Mexican: Add 3 tablespoons chili powder and a few finely chopped hot chilies to the sauce before cooking. Add a few dashes of Tabasco sauce if you like it extra hot.

Italian: Omit the Worcestershire sauce and the vinegar. Add 1 cup tomato puree, 1 tablespoon fresh basil or dried basil, a pinch of oregano and 1 cup of red wine.

WEIGHT WATCHERS' ALL-PURPOSE SAUCE

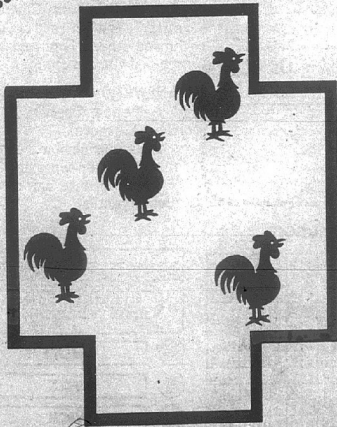

- 1 can (47 fluid oz.) tomato juice
- 3 tbsps. vinegar
- 2 tbsps. dehydrated onion flakes
- 2 tbsps. prepared mustard
- 1 tsp. lemon juice
- 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
- ½ tsp. garlic powder
- ½ tsp. barbecue spice
- 3 tps. brown sugar replacement

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan. Heat slowly until reduced to half its volume (it becomes quite thick.) Sauce may be stored in refrigerator and used as a base or marinade as desired on chicken, beef or fish. Makes 1½ pints. Count 1 tablespoon of sauce as 2 tablespoons (1 fluid ounce) tomato juice.

Your Social Security

The concept of disability

By GARY L. PALMER

Numismatic News, the coin hobby paper based in Iola, Wis., turns 30 this year and a big celebration is planned in the little Wisconsin community.

Chester L. "Chet" Krause was a 28-year-old carpenter when he founded the paper back in 1952 and he has hammered it into one of the hobby's most successful publications.

From the modest beginning — a one-page sheet, printed on only one side, with no photographs or advertisements and an unpaid circulation of less than 1,000 — it has progressed to the point where it is one of the highly respected publications in numismatics today.

Krause Publications now has more than 125 employees, publishes more than 30 periodicals, books and reference catalogs and does an annual business in excess of $10 million.

A day-long series of events is planned July 17, with government and hobby dignitaries from around the country taking part. And even if you can't make it to the paper's big day, which includes a big barbecue, there's still an opportunity to participate.

A 30th anniversary commemorative set is being offered to persons entering a one-year subscription to Numismatic News by Oct. 13 — the actual date of the anniversary. The anniversary set will include 31 uncirculated cents — one of each year from 1952 to 1982

— plus a cupro-nickel medal and aluminum token designed exclusively from the company by Frank Gasparro, former chief sculptor-engraver of the U.S. Mint.

And it is the medal that may be treasured until Judgement Day — precisely because somebody used bad judgment when the medal was struck and judgment is misspelled. It's "judgement" on the medal where the words PURPOSE, PRINCIPAL and JUDGEMENT are incorporated into the design that includes a portrait of Abe Lincoln and the Lincoln Memorial.

Cliff Mishler, the amiable publisher of the News, has taken his share of kidding since the error was discovered, and while it isn't acceptable even as a second spelling in "Webster's" he says it would be perfectly acceptable in jolly old England. Cliff is almost positive it was right in his original sketch idea, but somehow it slipped by everyone — including the Franklin Mint, which struck the medal.

"Please don't be too hard on us," Cliff begged, when we put in a phone query to him about it back in Iola.

I assured him we'd use good judgment and not make him look too bad. And indeed it would be hard to make such a fine publication as Numismatic News look bad.

Happy 30th Anniversary, Cliff, Chet and the rest of the Krause Publications staff.

Q. Does one have to be totally disabled to qualify for Social Security disability benefits? — A.B.

A. Under the Social Security program, the concept of disability is essentially one of total disability. Congress did not intend that disability benefits be paid to workers who are able to do substantial gainful work, even if they have conditions which otherwise would be totally disabling.

Q. Later this year when both my wife and I are 65 we will be applying for Social Security. My wife worked quite a bit and she might be eligible for a higher benefit on her own earnings.

Does she have to apply as my wife or can she apply on her own account? — W.B.

A. Your wife's application will be considered as a request for payment on both accounts and she will receive the higher of the two benefits.

Q. I have been a faithful donor to Social Security since it first started. I receive Social Security benefits and an SSI check every month and I am almost 70.

Recently I was accused of reporting an incorrect amount of earnings for 1978 and they tell me I owe $78. That doesn't seem right to me because I know I didn't earn $5,000 that year. — W.R.

A. In 1978 the amount you were allowed to earn was $4,000 not $5,000. If you had earned over $4,000 that year you would have been required to file an annual report of those earnings.

Best thing to do is talk it over with somebody at your local Social Security office.

Q. My wife and I will both be 65 next year. Neither of us is eligible for Social Security benefits.

Are we eligible for Medicare? Can we keep our Blue Cross-Blue Shield if we sign up for Medicare? — A.L.D.

A. Neither of you is entitled to Hospital Benefits under Medicare since you are not entitled to monthly Social Security benefits.

Each of you may purchase Hospital Insurance at a cost of $113 each. If you elect to do this you must also buy Medical Insurance at a cost of $12.20 each.

You may elect to purchase the Medical Insurance only.

The fact that you have private health insurance will not prohibit you from buying Medicare coverage. Your local Senior Citizens club may have an insurance consultant available to advise you on a choice of policies.

Questions on Social Security may be sent to Eugene Williams, Social Security Office, P.O. Box 82727, San Diego, CA 92138.
